

Southern Railway Signs Peace Pact With Shop Crafts

Settlement According to Plan Accepted by Shop-Craft Unions in Chicago Last Week.

CHAIRMAN INSTRUCTED TO SEND MEN TO WORK

All Roads Controlled by Southern Are Also Parties to the Agreement Which Ends Strike.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, September 18.—Officials of the Southern railway and representatives of the union shop crafts of that system late today signed the Warfield-Willard-Jewell agreement. The strike among the workers of the Mobile and Ohio railroad, which is controlled by the Southern, also was settled on the same basis. The workers of the two roads, and those employed on all other lines controlled by the Southern who went on strike, are to return immediately to work with seniority rights unimpaired. Orders were telegraphed by the shop leaders tonight to divisional chairmen of the various labor unions throughout the south to instruct their men to return to work at once. Similar orders were sent out by the Southern's officials to their superintendents to put all the former workmen back at their old jobs as soon as they applied. The conference had been in session three hours when William H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists, as spokesman for the union chiefs, announced that a settlement had been reached. Henry W. Miller, vice president of the Southern lines, in charge of operations exhibited a copy of the agreement bearing signatures of the union representatives and of the Southern, remarking that he expected most of the striking workers to be back at work within a week. The refusal of the shop leaders to sign last Saturday led to doubt in some quarters as to the outcome of today's meeting. It was understood that the decision in favor of settlement was influenced largely by President Johnston, who was said to have urged an amicable agreement in the interest of "industrial peace." E. E. Norris, of St. Louis, vice president and general manager of the Mobile and Ohio road, acted as spokesman for that system in the negotiations.

STRIKERS MUST APPLY FOR JOBS C. N. & W. C.
Augusta, Ga., September 18.—(Special.)—R. G. Smith, S. W. Rowe, C. F. Heath, H. C. Cave and E. D. Reese, a committee of the striking shopmen of the Charleston and Western Carolina railway, had a conference, by appointment, with A. W. Anderson, vice president and general manager. Mr. Smith, for the committee asked Mr. Anderson if the C. & W. C. would consent to go along with the Warfield strike settlement plan. Mr. Anderson replied that it would not, and made a formal reply in writing. In his written statement Mr. Anderson reverted to his public statement of July 6. Today Mr. Anderson said, "Since publishing this notice (of July 6) our position has not been changed in the slightest. Any application for employment that may be made by strikers or others will be duly considered and prompt and definite answers given applicants in each case." "It is hardly necessary for me to add that anyone taken into the service will be paid in accord with the rates established by the United States railroad labor board."

"The C. & W. C. made no move, to fill vacancies until July 10. On July 6 it gave notice that if its men did not return to work by July 10 it would accept applications for employment by competent men and would 'record their seniority as they are employed.'"

'MADE IN ATLANTA' EXPOSITION OPENS TO GREAT CROWDS

Hundreds Find That Second Trip Will Be Necessary to See All Exhibits in Building.

FINE ENTERTAINMENT PROVIDED FIRST NIGHT

Resources of State Are Brought to Attention of All Through Booth of the Georgia Tech.

With the formal opening of the "Made-in-Atlanta" exposition at the city auditorium Monday night, the success of this remarkable show was conclusively indicated by the large number of people who viewed the exhibits at this first showing. In view of the fact that there is so much to be seen, it is expected that many who attended Monday night will want to make another trip through the show rooms, and it is believed that those who visit it a second time through the week will swell the attendance each evening as the week of the show progresses.

From an educational point of view alone, directors consider that the show has already scored a big success. The information given Atlantans Monday night, and the advertising of Atlanta-made products is believed to represent a very long step toward the goal of placing Atlanta industries in the limelight of the minds of the people.

Big Range of Products.
The thoroughness with which the management of the exposition has gone into the problem of giving Atlantans an opportunity to know their home city is evidenced by the fact that manufacturers, producers ranging from an unpretentious nail to a luxurious automobile are on exhibit—products of Atlanta shops and factories. Then the human side of the exposition is thoroughly taken care of and the purely entertainment features of the show scored a big success Monday night.

Music was furnished by an excellent band, and the visitors were freely treated to samples of ice cream, coffee and other manufactured products of the nature to add to the immediate enjoyment of the sightseers. As an example of the show, giving a cross section description, it might be well to mention the contrast of the nail machine and the knitting machine. The one using a spool of wire to feed its hungry jaws as it rapidly bites off the wire and spits out the finished nail, while the other feeds itself from spools of yarn and proceeds to convert the thread into hosiery. Still another machine on exhibit making use of the spool-feeding principle, is the loom where modern cloth-making processes are shown.

Tech Booth Exhibits.
Basic industries are portrayed, and the resources of the state of Georgia are brought to the attention through the exhibits at the booth of the Georgia School of Technology. How Georgia is preparing to keep up the work of producing is explained by the Tech display, which, among other things, consists of a Tesla coil, making use of 1,000,000 volts of electricity. This display, as conducted by the Tech students in charge, gave many a visitor a thrill Monday night as the sputtering thread-like spark from the coil was guided through surprising stunts as the young engineering students caught it on the end of a pair of pliers and moved it back and forth much as a spider web might be moved by a brisk breeze. Visitors will continue to have an opportunity to view this display throughout the week from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. The educational value of the exhibits to school pupils has been given special attention by the management in that Saturday has been designated as children's day, but many Atlanta youngsters were having the time of their lives there Monday night.

IN ATLANTA
by LFW
ATLANTA we are getting a touch of the gloom that is Greek, despite the fact that we are as far removed from the league of nations as the twittering Constantine is from the sturdier Leonidas. But we encounter the Hellenic horror when we mount to the restaurant counter for our bacon and eggs. We catch it as we consume our Coca-Cola. It is massaged into our shoes with every stroke of the shining rag.

For possibly no class of our foreign born population comes in as close daily contact with the home-bred as the Peloponnesian peoples who have settled among us.

The Greeks of Atlanta are good Americans, too—many of them, but all of them take a natural abiding interest in their mother country and the debacle suffered by the Grecian arms is deeply felt.

That's the reason you no longer hear your order of roast beef joyfully shouted back to the kitchen. That's the reason why the young Hellenic scrubbing away at your shoes no longer regales you with pugilistic comment. That's the reason that you see all the Greeks studying the Greek newspapers rather than the racing forms, rushed to Atlanta from Cincinnati, which once was the favorite literature of these descendants of Aristophanes and Sophocles, Aristotle and Plato.

MANY LOSE THEIR LOVED ONES.
TO MANY of the Atlanta Greeks the collapse of their armies brings an intimately personal tragedy. Brothers have fallen in the ranks. Fathers have found their eternal resting place in the red embers of what these Atlantans once called home. Sisters are likely to have fallen into the hands of the invading Turk.

Small wonder they move about their work like men from whom life and joy has departed.

But beneath their sorrow you will find a deep rooted rage, if you engage one in conversation. His rage isn't particularly directed against the unrepentant Turk. His ire is stirred against the puny little king, who just a few months back rode into Athens in triumph on a milk white charger to receive, the adulation of the impressionable people of the ancient city.

They see in Constantine the source of all their woes. They have all been in America long enough to become staunch republicans or rather democrats, if you prefer the terminology.

That's the reason that on the back counter of every Hellenic owned soda fountain in Atlanta you'll see a little statue of a bearded and rather unattractive old man. You'll see the same effigy in the bootblack stands and the restaurants.

The statue is of Venizelos, the great statesman, who visited Atlanta about a year ago. Atlanta Greeks look to this old man to save their fatherland.

VOTE TO SUSTAIN BONUS VETO SEEN

Senate Cannot Muster Required Two-thirds to Override Expected Veto of President Harding.

BY CLAYTON WHITEHILL.
Washington, September 18.—President Harding, having conveyed to the American Legion his displeasure with the present soldier bonus bill, may be expected to veto it promptly. And a poll of the senate disclosed just enough votes to sustain the veto.

Administration leaders, after conferring with the president at the white house, predict that he will send a "vigorous" veto message to congress, possibly Tuesday.

Anti-bonus senators now feel certain of gathering enough votes to sustain the veto since Senator Curtis, republican floor leader has received a telegram from Senator Weller, just arrived in Los Angeles, from a juncture to Japan, asking that he be paired as sustaining a veto. The latest addition, leaving 62 votes to override the veto—two less votes than the necessary two-thirds majority.

Line-Up.
This calculation presupposes attendance of the full complement of 90 senators. It is based on the roll call of August 31, when the bonus passed the senate, together with an analysis of pairs. Thus the following republicans and democrats, totalling 34, may be counted on to sustain the veto:

SIMS TAKES RAP AT 'HIGHER-UPS' ON POLICE FORCE

If Elected Mayor, Will Purge Department "As Clean as Hound's Tooth," He Asserts.

WOODWARD ASSAILS OPPONENTS' TACTICS

Former Mayor Again Hits Walter Taylor, Saying He Will Be Dictator If Sims Wins.

A pledge by Councilman Walter A. Sims to purge the police department "as clean as a hound's tooth," and a statement by his opponent, James G. Woodward, assailing his campaign tactics and charging Walter Taylor, city clerk, with dictatorship over the block of developments Monday in the runoff contest for mayor which will end Wednesday.

Councilman Sims' declaration that he will thoroughly clean the administration of the police department was delivered before 500 voters of his home ward Monday night at Moreland and Euclid avenues. His statement brought forth loud cheers and handclapping from the crowd.

Mr. Sims declared the rank and file of the police force are clean, honest men and are with him. He said some of the higher ups had to go.

"Says Ring Must Go."
"The results of the bunco investigation have not been finished and won't be finished," asserted the speaker, "as long as the ring controls the politics of this city."

The bunco gang that fled this town with the solicitor-general's forces in pursuit are watching their election—watching for my defeat, which would be the signal for their return to Atlanta under the protection of the police department.

"Not only did this gang operate and flourish under the eye of the police and detectives, but within thirty feet of Decatur street, within a block of the police station every day a notorious negro bootlegging establishment was going full blast all the time."

"This negro rode around in a big car, his wife wore a squirrel skin coat and rode in a limousine."

"If I am elected mayor I will clean that department as clean as a hound's tooth."

Assails Woodward's Record.
The speaker then turned his attention to Mr. Woodward's record and his campaign.

"I am not straight-laced on the liquor subject," he said. "I wouldn't think that a man caught with a quart of whiskey was a bootlegger."

"But a man with 136 quarts—that's another thing. My opponent said the man who paid his entrance fee had only a little for his own use. Well, if he used all that he must have done nothing but drink."

"The ring that would use an emiser like that to pay their candidate's entrance fee—well, that's enough."

He renewed his charge that Woodward, as mayor, was a "tool" of the A. B. & A. railroad. He charged that the Georgia Railway and Power company has owned him for years.

Police Will Aid In 'Safety First' Week Observance

'Traffic Laws of City Must Be Obeyed,' Says Chief Beavers.

Today, the third day of the Safety First week will see the most efficient protection of the citizens of Atlanta from accidents that the existing traffic laws will permit, according to announcement by Chief of Police Beavers, who has sent out letters of instructions to all police captains to have patrolmen and traffic officers enforce the ordinances to the last letter.

Motorists and pedestrians have alike been warned against heedless regard of the traffic laws.

"No excuses are going to be accepted," said Chief Beavers. "I am going to show that the police department is solely behind the junior chamber of commerce in this work. There is no denying that disregard for the traffic laws is responsible for a large part of the accidents. There are a large proportion of these accidents attributable to whiskey. The laws of Atlanta are designed to protect the public and they are going to be enforced to that end." Laws regarding speeding, disregard of the parking ordinance and the rest are going to be rigidly enforced.

Coincident with the opening guns of no accident week, safety zones were erected at Five Points. This is a definite step toward protecting pedestrians from moving vehicles.

The safety island is in itself a great help in reducing accidents and

Story of Shame Is Told by Wife On Witness Stand

Mrs. Tiernan Gives Details of Alleged Illegitimacy of Her Baby Boy.

South Bend, Ind., September 18.—Before the largest court audience in the history of South Bend, Mrs. Augusta Tiernan, wife of Professor John P. Tiernan, of the Notre Dame university law school, told Monday with bowed head and sobbing accents the story of her alleged liaison with Harry Poulin, the clothing merchant, who she charges is the father of her 10-month-old baby boy.

To accommodate the crowd, which not only packed the hearing room, but swamped the corridors of the city hall, and overflowed into the street, Judge C. L. Du Comb had obligingly moved the hearing into the city council chamber.

The climax of the sensation-drammed hearing came when Prosecuting Attorney Jellison turned to Mrs. Tiernan and asked:

"Who is the father of this child?" pointing to the 10-month-old baby sleeping peacefully in its mother's arms—"exhibit A" in the case.

Mrs. Tiernan pointed a dramatic finger at Poulin.

"Harry Poulin," she said in a low and calm voice.

The accusation made, she burst into sobs and continued to weep for several minutes.

In minute detail, Mrs. Tiernan had described her first clandestine meeting with Poulin, which took place, she said, in his little store on the night of February 18, 1921.

Two Heads Bowed.
As she told her story two spectators lowered their heads.

One was Professor Tiernan, who dropped his chin and clinched his hands as he heard the story told in public, which he had listened to before many times, according to his statements, in private.

Professor Tiernan was there as a witness. Previously he had announced his withdrawal from the case. He withdrew, it appeared Monday, as his wife's counsel and instead will play the more important role of witness, believing he can do her cause more good in that way. He will testify Tuesday.

The other bowed head was that of Mrs. Poulin. The accused man's wife partially concealed her face behind a handkerchief, but gave no sign of emotion.

Baby "Bill" Tiernan sat in his mother's lap. The babe was restless and occasionally his mother walked the floor to quiet him.

Poulin himself seemed the least disturbed of all as he listened to the story sobbed out from the witness stand. He fingered a pocket pencil, refusing to look at Mrs. Tiernan and the baby.

Pointed Questions.
Prosecutor Jellison, examining

ASPHALT PAVING FOR CAR TRACKS

Public Works Committee to Confer With Meador Construction Company on Peachtree Road Cost.

A seven-inch penetration asphaltic pavement along the Peachtree road car tracks seemed likely Monday, following definite abandonment of the proposal to lay a concrete surface.

To determine the exact cost of a seven-inch asphaltic pavement the public works committee of the board of county commissioners will confer Tuesday with officials of the Meador Construction company, the concern holding the contract as originally made for the paving which was abandoned two weeks ago.

The plan to pave the area along the car tracks with concrete was abandoned Monday following a conference between the committee and officials of the Georgia Railway and Power company, at which it was agreed that the cost of a concrete surface was prohibitive and that asphalt would make as satisfactory a pavement.

Will Cost $50,000.
It is understood that the surface can be finished with a seven-inch penetration asphalt method at an approximate cost of $50,000, whereas the concrete paving would have cost in the neighborhood of $127,000.

Power company officials claimed that the life of the present rails on Peachtree road was about eleven years, and the commissioners contended that it would be bad business to put down concrete and in eleven years, when it becomes necessary to replace the rails, have to blast up the concrete and rebuild the track.

"The penetration pavement will have practically all the advantages of the concrete without this great drawback," said Oscar Mills, chairman of the committee. "We believe that in the long run penetration pavement will be more economical than concrete."

Wanted Concrete.
On the ground that concrete would afford a more durable surface, a committee of Peachtree road residents have led a movement for such pavement. Such a pavement, it was found, would necessitate the placing

FIGHT REOPENED FOR BROWN SITE FOR HIGH SCHOOL

Resolution Recommending Purchase Is Taken From Table by Council and Sent to Board.

JACOB ELSAS TENDERS GRADY $50,000 GIFT

Opposition Develops at Meeting Over Sulgrave Appropriation, But Sum Is Finally Voted.

Prospects that the new Girls' High school will be located on the Brown and adjacent property at Washington street and Woodward avenue assumed more definite shape Monday afternoon, when city council took from the table a resolution recommending this site and referred it to the board of education.

The tendered gift by Jacob Elsas of $50,000 to Grady hospital and a lively fight over a proposed contribution of $300 toward entertainment of the Sulgrave commission during its visit in Atlanta, were other outstanding features of the session.

Mayor Pro Tem A. H. Cochran is leading the council fight for erection of Girls' High school on the Brown site. At the recent municipal primary the voters by overwhelming majority rejected a proposal to condemn a portion of Grant park as a site for the institution.

Cochran Leads Fight.
While the question was pending before the people Alderman Cochran introduced a resolution calling on council to cast its choice in favor of the Brown property. Council declined to act until the electorate had registered a decision at the ballot box. When the alderman moved Monday that the paper be taken from the table no member opposed it.

The alderman will address a luncheon meeting of the Atlanta League of Women Voters Tuesday at the Ansley hotel on the question of locating the school.

Mr. Elsas, prominent Atlantian, made public his offer of $50,000 to Grady hospital several weeks ago. He proposed to donate this sum to enlargement of facilities for the convalescent patients at the institution, conditioned on his approval of the plans and specifications for the improvements. The resolution containing his offer was referred to the city attorney to prepare the necessary legal papers of acceptance, after which it will come before council for final action.

Attack Appropriation.
The Sulgrave appropriation was attacked as being illegal and the city attorney ruled that as a matter of strict law it was, the city having no legal authority, under the charter, to appropriate money for the entertainment of conventions, commissions or similar groups.

Mayor Pro Tem Cochran then ruled the appropriation out of order. Councilman J. B. Nutting appealed from the ruling.

Councilman J. A. Conch jumped to his feet in opposition. "Great Britain hasn't even paid the interest on the war debts she owes us," he said, "and I'm opposed to voting our money to entertain her delegates."

Councilman Fred Woodall joined

Gun Shots Heard On Night Rector And Woman Died

Witnesses Tell of Hearing Shots and Screams Near Spot Bodies Found.

New Brunswick, N. J., September 18.—(By The Associated Press.)—Unsuccessful search among many clues and conflicting details was made Monday by the detective staffs of two counties, the local police and seven state police to establish definitely the scene of the shooting to death last Thursday night of the Rev. Edward Hall, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist, and Mrs. James Mills, wife of the sexton and a choir leader in the church.

The bodies of the two bearing bullet wounds were found side by side Saturday in an old orchard in Somerset county. Authorities of Somerset have expressed the belief that the two had been shot elsewhere and the bodies brought to the orchard and laid out under the apple tree in an effort to draw closer the veil of mystery which is over the double shooting.

The discovery today, however, of four witnesses, residing in the vicinity of the field, who reported hearing screams and gunshots on Thursday night, has strengthened the belief that the two shootings occurred in the rustic setting where the bodies were found.

Awakened by Screams.
Henry McCabe, a bridge tender, told the police that on Thursday night shortly before midnight he was awakened by screams. He said he

CANADIANS WANT PARLIAMENT OKAY

Ottawa, September 18.—The reply of the dominion government tonight to the British government tonight, following a cabinet meeting which lasted until nearly midnight was to the effect that public opinion in Canada would demand authority from parliament as a necessary preliminary to the dispatch of a contingent of troops to participate in eventualities in the Near East.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Constantinople, September 18.—The entire British Atlantic Fleet is being sent to reinforce the Mediterranean squadron for the protection of Constantinople and the Straits of the Dardanelles.

This undoubtedly will create the most formidable armada of warships ever assembled in an area of like size, embracing the most modern dreadnaughts, battle cruisers, destroyers, submarines and aircraft carriers.

British officials here feel confident that if the allied land forces are not sufficient to check an attack on the Dardanelles by the Turkish nationalists, the combined fleet, together with French and Italian war vessels, will be more than adequate.

There is an increased feeling of security among the non-Muslim population of Constantinople as a result of Great Britain's energetic measures. The highest military authorities declare the Turks will not commit the folly of opposing such overwhelming forces.

The allied commanders here are meeting today under the presidency of Brigadier General Sir Charles Harcourt.

SULGRAVE MISSION REACHES ATLANTA

Visitors Will Call at Office of Mayor This Morning and Banquet Will Be Given at Night.

BY GARLAND B. PORTER.
The delegation of distinguished Britons, Canadians and Americans representing the Sulgrave Institution arrived at the Terminal station Tuesday morning at 1:15 from Chattanooga.

There was hardly enough fog in the air to give the party any thoughts of merry old England, but the bracing air did not interfere with the reception Atlanta gave the 14 visitors. The party, of which Sir Charles Wakefield, former lord mayor of London, is a member, expressed admiration for the goodly bunch of keys to cities already collected on their tour. Sir Charles expressed the warmest praise for the American women.

"I think you have the most charming women in the world. The imagination, the energy and spiritual insight of the women of America compose one of the greatest assets of modern civilization," said the former lord mayor in his mellow English drawl.

Taken to Georgian Terrace.
The party, as fresh as any Americans after a long journey, was taken immediately to the Georgian Terrace hotel by the reception committee. Limousines were sent to the station by Fred Patterson, George Watts, Charles Ryan and Captain James English to convey the party to their hotel.

Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock the party will leave the Georgian Terrace on a tour of the city. The first stop will be at the mayor's office, it being an old English custom that all visitors on the mayor of the city the first thing upon reaching town. At the city hall they will be met by Mrs.

Condition of Bodies Indicates Men Probably Died Soon After Fire Began, August 27.

MUTE EVIDENCE TELLS OF BRAVE STRUGGLE

Doomed Men Had Built Bulkheads in Vain Effort to Block the Passage of Deadly Gases.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Jackson, Cal., September 18.—All 47 of the miners entombed in the Argonaut mine August 27, are dead, it was announced officially shortly before 9 o'clock tonight.

A note found on one of the bodies indicated that all the men had died within five hours of the beginning of the fire August 27, officials said.

All the miners were found behind the second of two bulkheads they had built in a cross-cut 4,350 feet down in the Argonaut mine. Byron O. Pickard, chief of the federal bureau of mines for this district, was the first man to go behind the bulkhead and discovered the bodies.

Brief Note Found.
Pickard, on an earlier exploration behind this bulkhead had counted 42 bodies and expressed the belief that that there were others there.

The note found read as follows:

"3 a. m. gas bad."

The same note bore a scrawled figure "4" apparently indicating the same man had attempted to leave word for those who might come after of the condition of the mine at that hour.

Mine officials declared that the condition of the cross-cut behind the bulkhead was such that life could not have been sustained there for the entombed men for more than five hours.

Identification Impossible.
The bodies were found piled one on top of another and decomposition has progressed so far that identification would be impossible, Pickard reported.

The mine officials said that the actions of the men, as evidenced by the bulkheads they built and other matters indicated they had died with five hours after being entombed.

The officials declared the mute evidence of the men's struggles showed they were 47 of the most cool-headed men imaginable.

Clothing Removed.
Sixteen of the entrapped miners removed their clothes to provide material for stuffing the cracks in the wooden barrier, hastily constructed which was found early this evening.

Then another barrier was built of rock, earth and debris. However, the gas fumes from the fire apparently seeped through the first bulkhead and the men fled from the site where they were building the second one to start a third, further on.

This third attempt to wall off the death-dealing gas was made at the end of the 4,350 foot cross-cut in the Argonaut, but the fact that only a bare start was made as it proved, the mine officials said, that the deadly carbon monoxide and the suffocating carbon dioxide had reached it and performed their fatal office in the 47 unfortunate could raise even an excuse for a barrier.

Mine officials said that death had come to the entombed men painlessly. The gases, they said, would produce first a lethargy, then a coma and finally death.

Jackson as a whole took the tragic news calmly and courageously. The general topic of conversation, except in the immediate family circles of the dead, was arrangements for the funeral which it was believed would be a joint affair.

RADIO DEPARTMENT

TENOR W. L. SING TONIGHT FOR WGM

Frank Tindall to Be Featured—Mrs. Lester, Mrs. DeLamar and Miss King Score.

A tenor of special excellence will be presented tonight on Station WGM's 9 o'clock program when The Constitution offers Frank Tindall, attorney, and pupil of Signor E. Volpi, in a series of six vocal selections. Signor Volpi will play Mr. Tindall's piano accompaniments on the Steinway piano from Phillips & Crew. On the program also tonight will be musicians under the direction of Miss Annie Munger. Miss Munger will take a prominent part in the concert.

The program at 9 o'clock tonight follows a special concert last night in which Station WGM presented Mrs. Jack Lester, soprano; Mrs. W. A. DeLamar, contralto and pianist, and Miss Lulu Clarke King, pianist. Six vocal numbers were given on the program last night.

Mr. Tindall who will be featured on tonight's 9 o'clock program, has been heard from Station WGM and in his initial appearance on a Constitution radio program made such a distinct impression that listeners asked that he sing again on one of Station WGM's programs. Mr. Tindall tonight will present six numbers, featuring ballads.

In her program last evening from Station WGM Mrs. Lester, who made her radio debut at that time, gained many admirers. Her voice carried well and was strong and clear in every one of her selections. She sang as solos, "I Know a Lovely Garden," "By the Waters of Minnetonka," "Sing, Sing, Bird on the Wing," "At Dawning," and "The Nightingale Has a Lyre of Gold." Mrs. Lester was accompanied at the piano in all of her solos by Mrs. DeLamar, who surrendered her place at the piano to Miss King in the fifth selection on the program. For this number Mrs. Lester and Mrs. DeLamar presented "Whispering Hope," one of the most striking selections on the program.

Ironized Yeast Will Ironize Your Nerves

To Produce Great Natural Nerve Strength, Yeast Should Be Ironized and Not Merely Mixed With Iron. There is Only One Ironized Yeast in the World.

Now, Mr. Man, tighten your fist and clamp your jaws. Tighter. Now still tighter. Tighter still. Notice how weak is the tightest you can get? Vitamins and iron in your body made it possible for you to do these two things. If you had still

Is He Run-Down, Exhausted? See That He Takes Ironized Yeast! more vitamins, ironized, you could tighten your fist and your jaws almost as tight as a vise. Ironized Yeast will enable you to do it, because ironized yeast combines concentrated vitamins with natural iron, in such strength that gives amazing power to nerves and organs in half the usual time. It is the most powerful restorative in the world today for tired, exhausted men and women. It is not a mere mixture of yeast and iron, but ironized yeast, which is a substance all by itself. Give your nerves the natural food-strength they lack. They do not need stimulation, they need natural force. Here it is, Ironized Yeast! It will give you great blood power, great nerve power, an avalanche of energy, brain clearness, stronger muscles, firmer flesh, clear eye and memory—and you'll smile the smile of health and power. Ironized Yeast is sold at all drug stores, at $1.00 a package. Each package contains 40 tablets, each tablet is sealed. They never lose their power. 25¢ a box by Ironized Yeast Co., Atlanta, Ga. Just try it. It will prove itself.

The ABC's of International Morse Code

BY A. W. SHROPSHIRE

Today's lesson will be the letter "I" and a five-minute review of both "I" and "E." The letter "I" will be sent from 9:40 to 9:45 p. m. today and from 9:45 to 9:50 the letters "I" and "E" will be grouped in all possible combinations.

The letter "E" which was sent yesterday is the easiest letter in the alphabet to remember so that no difficulty should be experienced in determining "E" from "I." At the same time it will fix the sound of both letters more definitely in your mind.

Remember, never think of a letter as so many dots and dashes but learn to associate the SOUND of the letter with it. If you ask a good operator what the code for a letter is, he will have to pause and think for an instant before he can tell you, but if he hears the sound of that letter it is as plain to him as if you had spoken that letter.

If each student will get a buzzer and key and practice during spare time the code will come easier. But do not go at it in a slipshod manner. Pick out one letter and send that letter over and over again until you can recognize it instantly. If you wander away from that letter to another one without having thoroughly learned the first one you are merely wasting your time.

It takes lots of perseverance and hard work to learn the code and the average man generally relaxes his interest before he becomes proficient enough to obtain satisfactory results in reception.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

LESSON NO. 151.

Radio Dictionary.

CARRIER WAVE—The wave which provides the means for transmitting or carrying the audio-frequency wave, but which does not determine the nature of the sound heard at the receiving station when simple detection reception is used.

COATED FILAMENT—Some types of vacuum tubes the filament or hot electrode has cemented to its surface a thin coating of oxides. Filaments having this coating give off electrons freely at much lower temperatures than those employing pure metal and require considerably less power to evaporate the same number of electrons in a given time than filaments of pure metal.

MAGNETIC AMPLIFIER—A device for controlling signalling in high powered stations, employing large currents, to avoid having to break the full current. When used with a high frequency alternator, it consists of a variable impedance connected in shunt with the external circuit of the alternator. Through the use of a control current of a few amperes, large antenna current of several hundred amperes are effectively controlled.

DIELECTRIC CONSTANT—The dielectric constant of any substance is the ratio of the capacity of a condenser using this substance as a dielectric, to the capacity of the same condenser using air as the dielectric. If the capacity of an air condenser is multiplied by this ratio, the capacity of the same condenser employing the new substance may be determined.

SULPHATION—A condition which exists in lead cells due to over-discharge or to allowing the cell to remain discharged for a considerable period. The production of an excess of lead sulphate causes the plates of the cells to buckle which either short-circuits the cells or reduces their capacity through the falling off of the active material from the plates.

ARC TRANSMITTER—A system for generating continuous waves by combining an electric arc with inductance and capacity of suitable values and supplying the arc with direct current having a potential of approximately 500 volts. Copper is used for the positive electrode of the arc and carbon for the negative. The oscillations produced in the circuit composed of the arc inductance and the condenser are transferred to the aerial circuit and radiated in the form of continuous waves.

"PUSH-PULL" CIRCUIT—A circuit in which two vacuum tubes having similar characteristics are connected in the same manner as a single-stage amplifier. Owing to the fact that the input voltage may be used which is twice as large as variations impressed upon a single tube. The resultant outputs are correspondingly increased due to the summation of the outputs of the separate tubes.

ANSWERS TO 9 QUESTIONS

Radio Editor: Please inform me through your columns what is meant by a slipping detector which is used in undamped wave reception.

Undamped waves are not audible in the state that they are received, and some means must be used to divide them into audio frequency groups. This can be done in a number of ways, the simplest being to use a detector. Such a detector consists of a metal disk having a groove running around its edge. In this groove, a wire makes a light contact. The disk is revolved at a high speed, and the imperfect contact between the disk and the wire breaks and makes the circuit many times, a second frequency is thereby made available by this method.

Radio Editor: How long should a 60 amp-hour storage battery remain on charge with a home charging outfit?

This all depends on the charging rate. If it is five amperes the battery should be kept on charge for about 25 hours. The time is in proportion for other rates.

tions which always delight listeners. The three numbers are "Tricks," "Dancin' Fool" and "O Sole Mio." The last number was presented just a few nights ago on request and so many calls were received asking for it again that Mr. Warner again included it on his program for tonight.

"Tricks" and "Dancin' Fool" are two of the latest numbers to be presented by the Aces and have received big applause at every dance at which they have been presented by the Aces. Both are played by a special Warner arrangement, one of the factors which makes the Aces' music the best dance music in the south.

BURGLARS ARE BUSY HERE SUNDAY NIGHT

Robert B. Bagwell, of 10 Waverly way, Monday morning reported to city detectives that his pockets were picked of $39 in money by an unidentified party at a downtown hotel while he was in a crowd. He furnished the officers a description of a man he suspected, but no trace of him could be found.

Another robbery was reported to the detectives by Mrs. A. F. Brackett, of Charlotte, N. C., who lost $80.

which she told the officers was taken from her in the ladies' waiting room at the Terminal station Sunday.

Two liberty bonds aggregating $500, a book of war savings stamps, two diamond pins, opera glasses and other articles constituted the reward burglars reaped during late Sunday night and before day-break Monday.

The homes robbed were Mrs. J. B. Fischer's, 115 West Fifth street; F. M. Strauss, 478 Washington street; R. J. Stiller, 54 St. Charles place; Mrs. E. D. Crane, 1006 Piedmont avenue.

Two stores were also reported entered as follows: Clein's Pawnshop, 112 Decatur street, and Snellings Swift, 251 Peachtree street.

A $500 liberty bond and a platinum pin set with nine diamonds were taken from Mrs. Fischer's residence, while

F. M. Strauss, 478 Washington street, lost a $50 liberty bond and three books of war savings stamps.

Thieves took a bar pin with three diamonds and 22 pearls from the home of E. J. Stiller, 54 St. Charles place; a pair of opera glasses from 1006 Piedmont avenue, belonging to Mrs. E. D. Crane, and a quantity of wearing apparel from Mrs. Robert Strickland, 344 Myrtle street.

The detective reports do not show what was obtained from the Decatur street pawnshop, nor at 251 Peachtree street.

"FORGET-ME-NOT" DAY SET FOR NOVEMBER 24

Plans for the observance of "Forget-Me-Not day" in Atlanta will be made at a special meeting held in the office of Dr. Louis Frosterman, 313 Connolly building, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. A citizens' committee will be organized to direct the day's activities.

"Forget-Me-Not day," which is the national day for remembering disabled veterans, will be observed on November 24.

The aim and purpose of this drive," says Dr. Frosterman, "is to provide a fund for the disabled veterans who are daily being turned out by the government as rehabilitated, but who are incapable of competing with the average man who has no physical disabilities.

"Many men, who are in need, are too proud to apply to an ordinary charitable institution for relief, feel at liberty to apply for the same from their fellow veterans."

Dixie Cavalryman Anxious to Hear From Old Comrades

Sixty years ago John M. Ellis, then a mere lad of 18, enlisted in company C, of the confederate cavalry—"Major Edmondson's" cavalry, it was called.

Now he longs to talk over the old days with his old companions—to see Captain "Bill" Sebastian, First Lieutenant "Bill" Fields, Second Lieutenant "Jim" Ramsey—and all the boon companions of his bivouac days.

If any member of company C—or any other company, for that matter, who sees this will write Ellis, it will bring cheer to an old veteran's heart, and help to make the years less lonely, he says.

A letter addressed to John M. Ellis, Yolande, Ala., or to W. A. Watts, Jones, Ala., will reach him.

M. L. DUGGAN THANKS FRIENDS FOR SUPPORT

Expressing appreciation for the support he received in his race for state school commissioner, M. L. Duggan, rural school agent, issued a statement Monday pledging his best efforts to the schools of the state. Mr. Duggan was defeated by N. H. Ballard, of Brunswick, in the primary held Wednesday.

Following is his statement:

Pending an opportunity to reply individually to my friends over the state, I wish to express my sincere appreciation of their cordial endorsements and active aid in my campaign.

The nearly unanimous endorsement by superintendents, teachers and school officials throughout the state, voluntary and without any concert of action, overwhelms me with a sense of appreciation and obligation, and is worth infinitely more to me than the election to the high office to which I aspired ever could have been.

Without such endorsements I never could have rendered proper service to the great cause, with the consciousness of such endorsement from the profession I shall endeavor to render the best service to the public schools of my state in the future than I have even been able to do in the past.

LAST SERVICES HELD FOR DR. S. S. WALLACE

With full Masonic honors conducted by members of a lodge which he organized and named, Dr. Samuel Stuart Wallace was laid to rest in

DR. SAMUEL S. WALLACE.

Oakland cemetery Monday morning following funeral services at the First Methodist church at 10:30 o'clock.

Dr. Wallace, who was professor of English at Georgia School of Technology for 23 years, is survived by his widow, Mrs. Louise Todd Wallace; one daughter, Janet; two sons, Samuel Stuart, Jr., and Victor, Mrs. Wallace was Miss Louise Todd, daughter of the late Dr. J. Scott Todd, one of the most prominent physicians of his time in Atlanta.

Somerset county, Maryland, was the birth-place of Dr. Wallace, and he was educated at Dickinson college, Carlisle, Pa., Columbia university and the University of Chicago. He held the honorary degree of doctor of literature conferred on him by the University of Georgia, and also won an additional degree from Dickinson college through his excellent work at Tech.

Dr. Wallace was prominent in the athletic development of Georgia Tech, and as treasurer of the athletic association he was instrumental in putting football and other major sports on a solid financial basis. He was a popular fraternal order man, 22nd degree Mason, member Scottish Rite and took a deep interest in the Scottish Rite home for crippled children.

He was an active member of the First Methodist church and also belonged to the capital city and Piedmont Driving clubs.

Dr. J. C. Harrell and Rev. John Fish Glenn conducted the funeral services. The ceremonies at the grave were conducted by Malta lodge, of which Dr. Wallace was founder and a past worshipful master. Pallbearers were Knight Commander of the Court of Honor Robert Troutman, Will Heston, Forrest Fisher, James E. Hickey and S. A. Kvor.

An honorary escort from the faculty of the Georgia School of Technology consisted of President M. I. Brittain, N. P. Pratt, Dean Emerson, J. H. Goon, Professor T. P. Branch, Professor J. B. Edwards, Dr. J. B. Crenshaw, Professor F. P. Smith, H. H. Caldwell, Professor J. M. Waters, Professor R. S. King, Professor C. E. Coolidge, Colonel A. W. Pendleton, Dr. W. C. Perry, Dr. G. H. Boggs, Professor W. V. Skiles, Professor A. B. Morton, Professor A. H. Armstrong and Professor J. E. McDaniel.

POWER PLANT MEN QUIT THEIR PLACES

Contending that the Atlanta joint terminals had broken an agreement, under which they had undertaken to work during the strike of railway shopmen, 6 power plant operatives of the joint terminals joined the walk-out of the shopmen Monday.

According to W. H. Pendergrass, chairman of Electrical Workers' Local No. 84, with which the power plant men are affiliated, the operatives had been told that if they would remain at work they would not be required to perform any railroad duties, but would be worked in the power plant exclusively.

When the joint terminals informed the workers Monday that they would be required to resume duties they had performed at the union passenger depot prior to the strike, the six men vacated their jobs.

TRUTH CENTER WILL MEET ON WEDNESDAY

Chamber Gives $500 To Get Recreational Director for City

The directors of the chamber of commerce have voted $500 toward the employment of a recreational director for the children of the city, B. S. Barker, secretary, announced Monday. This sum was voted upon the request of P. M. McLarty, of the Civic Recreation union, and with the understanding that the city council take over the work and employ such a director regularly.

The committee in whose hands the fund was given is composed of R. K. Kumbo, Julian Boehm and George M. Hope. Mr. Rambo, chairman, has called a meeting of the committee for Tuesday.

DR. LYONS TO SPEAK ON NEGRO MISSIONS

Dr. J. Spore Lyons will address the fourth annual conference of white people on colored mission work at the First Presbyterian church at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. Other speakers will be Mrs. Lyons, Dr. Gillespie Emloe, Dr. William Huck, W. Frank Smith, Edward Jones, and F. D. Strauss. Mr. Strauss will preside at the meeting.

Wednesday at 12 o'clock an exhibit of the work done in the daily vacation Bible school, sewing schools and kindergartens of the city will be opened. At 12:30 lunch will be served. An organ recital by Charles Sheldon, Jr., will be an event of the afternoon. Dr. W. H. Sheppard will be the principal speaker of the afternoon.

Dr. Sheppard has been conducting special evangelistic services at the Pittsburgh mission, corner of Coleman and Mary streets, every night at 7:30 since last Tuesday, and will conclude them tonight. The second annual conference for colored women, conducted by the women's auxiliary of the Presbyterian church, began Monday night, and will be continued throughout the week at Gammon seminary.

CLAIMS FALSE ARREST; ASKS $15,000 DAMAGE

Claiming that he had been falsely arrested in connection with the theft of 17 pairs of socks from S. H. Kress and company, Leo Smith filed suit in Fulton superior court Monday for $15,000 damages, naming as defendants S. H. Kress and company and the Stores Mutual Protective association. Attorney Roy Drennon represents Smith.

According to the petition, Smith was arrested by W. A. Boggs, a special officer of the protective association, but when the case came to trial no evidence was forthcoming from the prosecuting officer and the charges were dismissed.

W. A. SIMS TO SPEAK AT CARNIVAL GROUNDS

Walter Sims, candidate for mayor will speak at 9 o'clock tonight at the carnival grounds on Stewart avenue and Shelton street, where the Miller Brothers Shows are now playing their second week under the auspices of the Ararat Grotto No. 64.

Later this week there will be a parade of the Ararat Grotto Patrol, of which H. M. Ayers is captain.

The Capitol View Baptist church, of which W. Lee Cutts is pastor, is planning a big revival to begin next Sunday with Dr. O. E. Bryan, superintendent of evangelism of the home mission board in charge of the pulpit. Before coming to Atlanta Dr. Bryan was secretary-treasurer of the Kentucky Baptist convention.

To prepare for the revival a number of cottage prayer meetings will be held this week, as follows:

Tuesday, 7:30, L. E. Gillespie, 458 Stewart, leader. John E. Shannon, George B. Haley, 40 Fairbanks, leader; Colonel W. J. Laney.

Wednesday, 7:30, J. A. Spurlin, 8 Pierce, leader; J. Gilbert Smith, George I. Simons, 54 DeSoto, leader; E. M. Vary. All invited.

SILENCE OF HUSBAND CAUSES DIVORCE SUIT

Charging that her husband had humiliated her in public by his neglect and refusal to talk to her, and because he had not spoken a word to her since September 4, although they lived in the same house, Mrs. Bonnie Mills, of 604 Chestnut street, Monday filed suit for divorce against Joseph Lloyd Mills.

The Mills were married April 17, 1917, the petition stated. On September 4 Mills occupied a separate room from his wife's, and had refused to talk to her.

Speaking of Paint, What Would You Be Willing to Pay for a Good One?

How do you go about it to figure the price on paint? Do you base it on the price of linseed oil, white lead and zinc? If so, you are figuring only half the figures.

What automobile maker, for example, would today go back to steel springs and frame, now that an alloy steel of Vanadium has proved itself to be so much springier, tougher and better in every way.

An unalloyed white lead and zinc paint is good as far as it goes; but like the old kind of steel, it doesn't begin to go far enough. It doesn't spread out far enough.

It doesn't protect your house long enough. Frankly, our High Standard Paint is an alloy paint made of at least six differing materials. All of them vitally important. When you figure what a paint costs per gallon, that is only half the figures. The other half includes how much surface a gallon will cover; and how long it will keep it protected. Base your paint buying on the same common sense base, as you base other things you buy. Pay only for what a paint will do. Don't allow yourself to be influenced so entirely by what it costs a gallon.

Send for the money saving booklet, "Figure Your Painting Cost with a Brush, Not a Pencil."

OF CHURCH MURDER

called his wife and they listened together until the screams grew fainter and fainter.

The next morning they asked Mrs. Henry Waters, a neighbor, if she had heard the screams. Mrs. Waters said she had not, but had been awakened by reports of four gunshots. Otto Kaufman, a butcher's boy, also told the police he had heard gunshots. He said the first had been separated from the last three by a considerable interval.

Mrs. Mills was shot once between the eyes. The rector's body bore four bullet wounds.

With this new testimony fixing to a certain extent the scene of the crime, attention was drawn to a vacant house which stands on the Phillips farm, a tract of land adjoining the orchard. This house has been known for some time as "the mystery house." It is said to be rented, is fully furnished and yet is untenanted. All efforts to trace through real estate agents those renting the house are said to have failed. A superficial examination is said to reveal that the house may have been recently occupied, though no one has been known to have made his residence there for some time.

Brother's Prophecy.

No new figures were brought into the investigation today of the double shooting, which authorities describe as "another Elwell case," the still unsolved murder in New York two years ago of Joseph Elwell, clubman, whist expert and race track follower.

Detectives assigned to investigate certain remarks of William Stevens, a brother of the rector's widow, learned that his rendezvous was the station house of the local fire department and that he always "went to all the fires." At the station house, it was said that "Willie was known as a character."

Stevens has admitted, according to the police, that he remarked a few days before the shooting of his brother-in-law that "something big is going to happen soon."

"I've had trouble up at the house, and if I seem irritated don't pay any attention to me," Fire Captain Michael Regan said Stevens declared to him Saturday morning. Pressed for an explanation, Regan said Stevens replied: "You'll find out soon enough."

It became known today that Mr. Hall acted in an unofficial capacity as trustee of the fund created, it is said, at Stevens' request, from the sum which he inherited from his mother's estate. James H. Porter, trustee officer of the National Bank of New Jersey, administered the fund but the money was paid to Stevens by the rector.

The junior chamber of commerce, which is sponsoring the week, has made elaborate plans to cut the rate of accidents in the city of Atlanta to the minimum.

"Mr. Carelessness" was a prominent citizen of Atlanta, and during the past year added 60 members to his corps from this city. He planned and executed accidents in the city resulting in 513 persons being injured. "Mr. Carelessness" is survived by his widow, Mrs. Phoebe B. Careless; three sons, "Stop," "Look" and "Listen," and a daughter, "Miss Safety First."

Mayor Key presided at the grave side of the departed spirit. With fitting words he gave the significance of the burial and the whole city was asked to pause for one minute and consider the significance of the ceremony. A monument then was erected to the memory of the persons who lost their lives in accidents in this city the past year. Although the burial of Mr. Carelessness was touched with levity and the crowd laughed as they viewed the obsequies, there was more than one among them whose heart was touched with the memory of some one of those to whom the monument was raised.

POLICE WILL AID IN "SAFETY FIRST"

driving home the idea of carefulness," said Roy McCraw, chairman of the safety first committee of the junior chamber. "I have heard no end of praise for the city officials because of Atlanta's first safety island. Every one joins in the hope that similar safe-guards will be placed at all points throughout the city. The junior chamber began distributing the 45,000 safety first badges to the school children Monday. School children came to the chamber throughout the day for the safety first literature. Professor W. A. Sutton has arranged lessons to be taught in the schools of the city each day of the week. He has asked that the teachers co-operate in every way with the campaign, and they gave the following lesson Monday:

"The traffic policeman says that if every boy and girl will remember one simple rule in crossing streets, nearly all accidents would never happen. The little rule is this—'Before you cross the street, look to the left for autos or street cars, and when you get to the middle of the street, look to the right.'"

Another rule is, "Always cross at crossings." Don't cross in the middle of the block. Jaywalkers do that, and you don't want to be a jaywalker. The reason you should cross at crossings is that in the middle of the block, automobiles and street cars run faster, and it is harder to stop.

Another rule is—you must dodge a street car because it cannot dodge you. Remember a street car weighs about 40,000 pounds and cannot stop quickly, so do not try to run across ahead of a street car; always let it pass before you try to cross.

Most of the children that have been killed and hurt in Atlanta when crossing the street have run out from behind an automobile at the curb, and the auto driver or motorman could not see them until it was too late to stop. Always be careful when you step out from behind anything on the street.

Running across the street causes accidents because you can't stop quickly if an automobile comes along. When you hear the fire engine coming, stand on the walk until they have passed.

Lesson for Tuesday.

The lesson for Tuesday will be on the general subject of automobiles. It gives the points to be observed by pedestrians. The lesson follows:

Do you know there are about 25,000 automobiles and trucks running on the streets of Atlanta, and each year nearly 5,000 are added.

The more autos there are on the streets, the number of boys and girls that are killed and injured becomes larger.

Last year there were 22 children killed in Atlanta by automobiles, and in this year there have been 25 children killed and hurt by automobiles and street cars.

You don't want to be hurt, your parents don't want you to be hurt, and if you will remember these five little rules, you will be safe on the streets:

(1) Before you start across a street, at a crossing, look first to the left and then to the right.

(2) Never try to beat an auto or street car by running across a street. An auto running 15 miles an hour goes 22 feet in a second—just time enough to wish you were dead.

(3) Don't step in the street from behind anything quickly; stop and look to the left first.

(4) Don't chase your ball into the street until you know there is nothing to hurt you.

(5) Never "catch on" automobiles.

In connection with the safety first week being sponsored by the junior chamber of commerce, a plan has been devised whereby statistics may be compiled on the traffic situation. The following blank, which has space for the nature, place and responsibility of accidents occurring or traffic laws broken in the city during the week, should be filled out by witnesses of such accidents or of violations of the traffic laws and mailed to the junior chamber of commerce.

What traffic law was broken?
Where did accident happen?
Whose fault?
Was car speeding?
Car number?

(Clip out and mail to junior chamber of commerce.)

his protest and asserted he could use the money to advantage in his ward to erect more electric lights and repair holes in the streets.

The motion to override the chair was beaten by the vote of 12 to 11.

Later Mr. Nutting requested council to hear from Mayor Key on the object of the Sigrave commission's visit to America. Mr. Woodall objected but council voted itself into a committee of the whole over his objection.

Purposes of Commission.

Mayor Key said that the commission, among other purposes, proposed to preserve the ancestral home in England of George Washington, and that while in America it would present of Pittsburgh a statue of William Pitt and to Washington a statue of Edmund Burke.

"I have tried to uphold the good name of this city," he stated. "The object of this fund is to continue to do so. A city cannot violate the laws of hospitality without reaping the regrets of such a breach."

Mr. Nutting reopened his fight for the appropriation. Council reconsidered its action in overriding the chair and voted 12 to 5 in favor of the fund. Mr. Couch and Mr. Woodall joined in a motion for a reconsideration, automatically holding up the donation, but later they withdrew it.

Arthur Dyer Elected.

The resignation of W. Pat Anderson as councilman from the seventh ward was accepted by council and Arthur R. Dyer, a councilman-elect for the ensuing term was elected to fill the unexpired term.

Council approved contracts for erection of the northwestern junior high school, Ivy-Calhoun replacement and the new Pittsburg school, colored. The board of education recommended their award at a meeting last week. The contracts were approved by the bond commission at a session Monday afternoon prior to the council meeting.

Councilman Claude Ashley introduced a resolution, which council adopted, demanding of the Southern railroad that it repair the wooden floor of the Highland avenue bridge which spans its tracks.

A resolution was adopted feliciting

Put a Poised, Vigorous, Successful Business Man in the Mayor's Chair

Let the citizens of Atlanta ponder the well-poised personality and successful career of Walter A. Sims before voting for Mayor:

This able lawyer and progressive, successful business man has come up—not from the people, but with the people.

A plucky country boy, he drove a milk and produce wagon on Atlanta streets for years, working and studying day and night to prepare himself for college.

As a lawyer he has been a signal success, and as a business man he has acquired a notable competency, proving his ability to handle the city's business affairs.

As a municipal legislator he has been industrious and fearless, standing personally and officially for clean government.

In his social and commercial connections, his legal practice and his practical benevolence he has proven himself a man of broad human sympathies, and he will be the mayor of all classes of our citizens.

He will meet every public occasion with such splendid compass and such dignity and ability as to make everybody proud that he is our mayor.

A vote for Walter Sims is a vote for progress and prosperity, community conscience and civic reputation.

MEDICATED SMOKE DRIVES OUT CATARRH

A Simple, Safe, Inexpensive Method that Clears Out the Head, Nose and Throat.

Dr. Blosser, a catarrh specialist, is the originator of a certain combination of medicinal herbs, flowers and berries to be smoked in a pipe or ready prepared cigarette which is meeting with unusual success in catarrhal troubles. As the disease is carried into the head, nose and throat with the air you breathe, so the antiseptic healing vapor of his remedy is carried with the breath directly to the affected parts. This simple, practical method applies the medicine where sprays, douches, ointments, etc., cannot possibly go. Its effect is soothing and healing and is entirely harmless, containing no cubes, tobacco or habit-forming drugs. It is pleasant and may be used by women and children as well as men.

If you suffer from catarrh, asthma, catarrhal deafness, or if subject to frequent colds, you should try this remedy. For sale by all druggists.

If you desire proof of its beneficial and pleasant effect, send ten cents (coin or stamps) to The Blosser Co., 28 D.L. Atlanta, Ga., for a trial pack.

were casting about for jobs, to tide over, their employer, Henry Ford renewed his efforts to solve his fuel problem. His task, Mr. Ford maintained, was to obtain fuel at what he considered a reasonable price.

No statement had been made by the manufacturer today as to the probable duration of the suspension of work at his plants, but Edsel B. Ford, president of the company voiced the hope that a way out of the fuel difficulty might soon be found.

Whether the reported plan of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States for a nation-wide co-operative agreement among the manufacturers would aid the Ford company still was in doubt.

As outlined here, the plan is in agreement with Mr. Ford's stand in the coal situation, to the extent that it would provide against undue price inflation as well as for transportation to all industries large and small of enough fuel to keep them in operation.

The plan was being considered today by local manufacturers as well as the chamber of commerce fuel committee.

ABLE STRESSES FULLER BRUSH CO. GROWTH IN SOUTH

After a day spent in sales talks, business discussions and general pep sessions, the convention of the salesmen of the Fuller Brush company, of Hartford, Conn., working on the Savannah division brought the one day convention to a close Monday night with a banquet at the Ansley hotel.

Addresses were made by C. E. Harrison, H. M. Able, southern sales manager of the company, and Jerome C. Ard, Savannah division sales manager.

Mr. Able, who also spoke at the afternoon session, on co-operation among the salesmen, made the growth and expansion of the company the burden of the evening's address.

"The growth of the Fuller Brush company in the south can best be shown by two sets of figures," said Mr. Able. One is $400, which represented the sales for October, 1919; the other is $115,000, which represents the sales in the south for August, 1922. In 1919 one man was employed in the south; now there are 400.

Mr. Ard in his speech laid the cornerstones of success for his salesmen in these words: "First, you must have faith in yourself, in your company and in the value of your merchandise. Your approach must show enthusiasm and confidence. Your demonstration must carry confidence and cover the specific points. If you can manage to keep doubts out of the transaction, your sale is made."

Mr. Harrison's speech was inspirational in nature and covered the selling end of the game. A feature of the evening was the interpretive dancing by Miss Louise Watts and her pupils, Miss Katherine McDonald. Announcement was made by Mr. Ard of the promotions of J. R. Manning and D. G. McMillan as assistant branch managers of Atlanta. J. T. Hanaman, manager of the Atlanta branch presided.

FIRST SESSION HELD BY LIBRARY SCHOOL

The library school of the Carnegie library, of Atlanta, opened at ten o'clock Monday morning with a class of twenty-one students, representing Georgia, North Georgia, Virginia, Kentucky and Alabama.

Due to the increased demand for librarians throughout the south the Atlanta school doubled the size of its class this year.

The library school is financed by the Carnegie corporation and is run in connection with the Carnegie library, of Atlanta which is used as a practice field for the students. The faculty consists of Miss Tommie Dora Barker, director; Miss Susie Lee Crumley, principal; and a corps of instructors, Miss Fanny Hinton, Miss Fannie Cox, Miss Clyde Pettus, Miss Jessie Hopkins, and Miss Charlotte Templeton, secretary of the Georgia Library commission. In addition to the regular faculty, some of the most eminent librarians of the country visit the school each year for a series of lectures.

BAPTIST ASSOCIATION WILL MEET OCT. 10-11

The Atlanta Baptist association will meet October 10-11 at the Third Baptist church. The annual sermon will be preached by Dr. Charles W. Daniel, pastor of the First Baptist church.

The report of the executive committee will be made by Rev. W. H. Major, chairman. Other chairmen of committees to report are S. A. Cowan, program; H. A. Etheredge, convention missions; W. H. Faust, education; F. S. Etheredge, benevolence and social work; J. W. Wills, Bible study and training.

W. W. Gaines is moderator of the Atlanta association, and V. O. Kinsey, clerk.

The Atlanta association is one of the largest Baptist associations in the United States, having 24 churches with 24,541 members. Its total contributions last year were $508,000; its contributions to missions and benevolence $181,000.

Motion Picture Exhibit Shown At Chamber Hall

Better Films Week Program.

Selected pictures at all theaters.

Tuesday: Rotary club, Capital City club, Ernest L. Crandall, "Motion Pictures in the Classroom." Everybody invited. Luncheon $1.

Tuesday: Kiwanis club, chamber of commerce, R. K. Atkinson, speaker, "Motion Pictures a Corrective Agency." Exhibit at chamber of commerce open to public.

Wide educational interest centered in the exhibit in the chamber of commerce assembly hall which was thrown open to the public Monday as part of the program for "better films week," which is now formally under way in Atlanta.

The exhibit at the chamber of commerce, second floor, shows the development of the motion picture from its inception until the present time.

The Eden museum has furnished a part of this exhibit, and a number of the largest manufacturing concerns have their latest model projecting machines on display. Portable machines of the type used in homes, schools and institutions also are shown. The demonstration of motion picture machines goes back as far as equipment of the time of McKinley.

A miniature studio has been set up and its construction is so true to the actual studios that the public has an opportunity to see what a real movie studio looks like. The music room is fitted with a set of Blieg lights of the type used in studios because of their brilliance and special lighting capacity. The Atlanta Post Mounting company contributed the entire desert scene showing the sheik in the desert.

In keeping with the policy of the various civic organizations in co-operating with the better films committee, the Rotary club at its meeting Tuesday at the Capital City club will feature an address by Ernest L. Crandall, director of visual education in the public schools of New York. "Motion Pictures in the Classroom" will be the subject of Mr. Crandall's address. Mr. Crandall ranks as one of the leading progressive educators in the country. His research work in visual education is probably the most striking that has ever been done in connection with Columbia university.

Atkinson Will Speak. The Kiwanis club will also hear an address bearing on the movie industry at their meeting at the chamber of commerce Tuesday. R. K. Atkinson, head of the recreational department of the Russell Sage foundation, will talk on "Motion Pictures, a Corrective Agency."

Pictures being shown in Atlanta theaters this week are pronounced entirely suitable for the entire family. They were carefully selected by the better films committee, consisting of Mrs. Porter Langston, chairman; Mrs. B. M. Boykin, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, Mrs. W. F. Lemmon, Mrs. Frank McCormack, and others. Several weeks' time was consumed in reviewing films. Fifty-seven were exhibited to the committee, three were rejected as entirely unsuitable and twelve were chosen for use in the theaters during the present week. The committee states that these twelve represent the very best films that could be procured.

Famous Dollar Figures in $750 Watch Purchase

After resting over Sunday as the reformers would have all respectable dollars do, Atlanta's "Stay-at-Home-Dollar" began to circulate early Monday morning and before its history for the day was related to The Constitution by the person who held it at 6 o'clock, it had figured in transactions aggregating $911.75.

At 6 o'clock, the hour at which the holder is asked to communicate with The Constitution, no report had been made, and it was feared that the dollar had fallen into the hands of a Scotchman or else had been paid over to some bootlegger who was unwilling to incriminate some prominent citizen by reporting it. But at 8 o'clock, J. P. Morgan, Jr., of 385 Ponce de Leon avenue, phoned that he had received it before 6 o'clock from Tom Pitts' cigar store when he cashed a check for $4.

The city will breathlessly await news of the next transaction, for there is no telling what a man with a name like J. P. Morgan could do with a dollar.

Enclosed in Note Book.

The dollar bill is being circulated by The Constitution during the week of the Atlanta Manufacturers' exhibition to demonstrate how much good a dollar can do when spent solely for products manufactured in Atlanta or for goods sold by Atlanta merchants. The dollar is enclosed in a note book and each person handling the bill is expected to write in the book the count of how he received the dollar and for what purpose it was spent.

The dollar was started on its second day's journey early Monday morning by the Charles A. Smith drug company. The Smith company received it late Saturday afternoon after the bill had figured in purchases aggregating more than $100.

L. Jones, Jr., received the dollar in change from the drug store when he made a 35-cent purchase at the cigar counter. He paid it to Nat Kaiser and company in part payment for a $750 platinum wrist watch.

Journey of the Dollar.

The jeweler applied the dollar on their account with A. L. Belle Isle company, who gave it to David Bussey company in part payment for $5 worth of lubricating oil. Julian Prade, dealer in automotive equipment and sporting goods, was the next recipient.

Feeling the customary noon-time urge, Mr. Prade went to the Wise drug company and procured a lunch, tendering the bill in payment. It afterwards went to Carl Dickerson in change when he bought his lunch. Dickerson bought a quarter's worth of smokes at Tom Pitts', and there it remained until J. P. Morgan, Jr., came along and received it when he cashed a $4 check. Mr. Morgan informed The Constitution that he would pass it along at the earliest opportunity.

If you receive the dollar, start it on its way again. A dollar taken out of circulation ceases to render service and that's just what the promoters of the "Stay-at-Home-Dollar" are trying to prove.

During a thunderstorm the safest place to be is in a train, with bed as a good second.

Builders' Exchange Luncheon Featured By Musical Program

Unhindered by speeches or business, the luncheon of the Atlanta builders' exchange was given over to song, lively impromptu remarks, repartee and good-fellowship Monday noon at the chamber of commerce dining hall. F. A. Craig presided.

Due to the absence of any speech-making program, Mrs. Charles H. Knox and Mrs. Richard Kollan, who provided music for the luncheon, were called on for the lion's share of the entertainment. Mrs. Knox's rendering of "Mother Machree," and Mrs. Pollain's "Agnie Laurie" were warmly received.

A feature of the singing was the lullaby, joined in by all present, given for the special benefit of Sam Hodges and Chris Rauschenbaum; it was announced just before the lullaby that Mr. Hodges was the proud father of a boy and Mr. Rauschenbaum of a girl.

Several short talks were made relative to getting better attendance at the luncheons now that fall is here.

Anti-Noose League To Plan Campaign For More Members

Plans for statewide campaign for members of the League for the Abolition of Capital Punishment will be made at a special meeting at 220 Healy building at 3 o'clock this afternoon, it was announced Monday night by the executive secretary of the league. A full attendance of the meeting is expected.

In issuing the call for the special meeting, the secretary of the organization stressed the fact that the league is not waging a campaign against capital punishment for the purpose of preventing any specific execution that may have been ordered by the courts nor as a protest against any particular execution that has occurred in the past.

Its aim is to secure, by act of the

Red Caps and Shaved Heads Herald Opening Of Georgia's Fall Term

Athens, Ga., September 18.—(Special.)—The first real indications of the opening of the University of Georgia were seen today when red freshmen caps began to appear on the streets of Athens. Another indication of the ushering in of the college year was the appearance of the shaved heads of many freshmen.

Registration at the university began Monday and will continue through Wednesday, the day of the formal opening of the college. It is believed that 1,500 students will be enrolled by the opening, which will be the largest enrollment in the history of the institution.

AUTO WRECK VICTIMS REPORTED RECOVERING

Newnan, Ga., September 18.—(Special.)—Mr. and Mrs. John W. Christian and their little children, Geneva and Charles, were reported to be resting well at the Newnan hospital tonight, following the wrecking of the auto in which they were riding Saturday by a Central of Georgia train. A young son, Ross, 6 years old, was killed in the crash.

Although Mrs. Christian and her son, Charles, are said to be suffering from internal injuries, hospital physicians believe they will recover. The daughter suffered a fractured shoulder.

Fourth National Service Is NATIONAL Banking Service ---and MORE

Fourth National banking service, in the first place, is National Banking service.

As a National bank---the Fourth National is a national bank through and through---we are under the direct supervision of the national government, and offer our customers the full measure of safety and security that this implies. And it implies a great deal, as will be found by a study of the national banking act as it is in force today.

But our service is not merely National Banking service. It is more than that. It is FOURTH NATIONAL service, and all that this phrase has come to mean in Atlanta since the Fourth National Bank was founded more than thirty-two years ago. We believe that this, too, means a great deal. Certainly, from that time until this, while directing our efforts towards broadening and developing our service, we have also been careful to maintain that atmosphere of continuity and permanency which is so desirable in banking relations.

We are the same Fourth National now that we were when our charter was first granted. Our only change is in growth, expansion, such broadening of our comprehensive banking service as has promised to make it better and more readily answer the utmost and most varied requirements of all the 56,338 customers who compose our clientele.

This is the service we offer you---National Banking service. Fourth National service---conservative though comprehensive, continuous though growing, stable though constantly expanding, and as permanent as it is progressive.

If you are one of the 56,338, you know what this service is. If you are not, you ought to know, and we want to tell you. Any questions you should like to ask concerning the advantages of a banking connection with the Fourth National, the workings of our bank, its policies and practice, or any inquiry along the line of possible service to you, we shall cheerfully answer.

Come in and let's talk it over.

S. A. L. MEN VOTE TO RESUME WORK
Four hundred shop employees of the Seaboard Air Line railway will go back to work Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock, after having been out on strike for the past two months and a half, it was announced Monday night by E. C. Whipple, business agent for the International Association of Machinists. The announcement was made following a meeting of the union men at Labor Temple Monday afternoon, at which the strikers voted to return to work immediately under the Warfield-Willard-Jewell agreement. After the meeting was called to order the executive committee representing the union was dispatched to call on the officials of the road. In this interview it was ascertained that the foremen who went out with the men on July 1 would not be discriminated against upon their return to work, and that they would be given their old positions which they held previous to the strike. While the executive committee waited on the officials, the men waited at Labor Temple, where they received the information that the officials would take care of the foremen, thus removing an obstacle to settlement of the strike locally.

Another feature of the agreement between the local unionists and the officials of the Seaboard was the special arrangements would be made whereby no returning strikers would work with strike breakers who have been in the shops since the strike was called. This problem was solved by arranging for the strikers to go on the day shift, while the men already in the shops would be given the second shift.
Mr. Whipple stated that in his belief the Seaboard strikers would return practically one hundred per cent strong Tuesday morning. With the announcement from Washington that the strikers of the Southern system were to be instructed to return to work, and the announcement that 400 Seaboard men would return, the total number of men in Atlanta who are expected to be at work in the next few hours reached 900, or slightly less than 50 per cent of the total number of men said to be on strike in Atlanta.

CIVITANS WILL MEET AT CASCADE TERRACE
The annual fall social affair of the Civitan club will be held at Cascade Terrace Tuesday night, according to announcement Monday by Rev. Herbert Porter, vice president of the club and chairman of its entertainment committee.
The event will be an informal dinner dance. A chicken dinner will be served at 7:30 o'clock and a six-piece orchestra will furnish dance music until a late hour. More than 70 reservations have already been received by Mrs. Kate G. Kerlin, executive secretary.

of the rails on a concrete foundation to eliminate vibration, at an approximate cost of $35,000.
Monday the committee sought the additional funds from the power company, but the commissioners were told that the $10,000 already put up by the company toward the improvement was considered a fair share of the cost. The cost of the asphalt pavement now proposed is said to be within the county's means.
Commissioner-elect Edwin F. Johnson attended the conference Monday at the invitation of Commissioners Mills and George Hope, of the public works committee. Representing the power company at the conference were President Preston Arkwright, F. L. Butler, general operating manager, and C. A. Smith, superintendent of roadways.

VOTE TO SUSTAIN BONUS VETO SEEN

the veto, that action would prevent the bill from becoming law.
While the unofficial poll is based on ideal conditions, nevertheless, anti-bonus senators feel that a proportionate number will be absent from either side, or that those absent will be paired.
A two-thirds majority of those senators or congressmen present and voting is sufficient to sustain or override a veto.

Point Out Cost.
Although the precise content of the president's veto message has not been divulged to senate leaders, nevertheless it is expected to point out that while the present cost of the bonus to the government would not be so great, the eventual drain on the nation's finances would be enormous.

Harding is understood to have expressed these sentiments to the American Legion, Monday, when a delegation of legionnaires headed by Commander Hanford B. MacNider, waited upon the president at the white house, urging him to act favorably on the measure.
"If benefit to the veterans concerned is provided now," MacNider told Harding, "no great pension system except for the disabled will be necessary during the coming years to meet the handicap. Immediate adjustment will save the nation billions of dollars and restore the faith of those sorely tried by what they feel to be national ingratitude and injustice."

IN ATLANTA, BY L. F. W.

just as surely as the French turned to the old Tiger in the dark days of the republic when the German hordes were pouring across the Marne.
NOT QUITE THAT BAD ANYHOW.
DETAILS of the Smyrna horror continue to pile in, but at that, it might be worse. Our elevator chauffeur in the Constitution building has a penchant for fires. They terrify him and they fascinate him. The clang of a fire truck's bell sends delicious chills all up and down his spine.
His eyes were popping a few nights ago as he showed me an early extra, proclaiming in eight column lines the fact "Smyrna Is Flaming."
"Ain't this awful," he gasped. "Lord, I don't want to go to Smyrna."
But who knows—maybe there is some sturdy Thracian, some gallant Spartan, some heroic Macedonian now shining the shoes of Atlanta who, whose mind and soul have been ignited by that distant cataclysm and is even now preparing to gird on the sword of Leonidas and fight with the spirit of Marvo Bozaris "strike for his altars and his fires, God and his native land."

and attacked him as a business failure so far as protecting the financial interests of the city had been concerned.
"If he was the great business man he claimed to be, why didn't the A. B. & A. make him president, instead of a collector of its rents?" he asked. "Why didn't the Georgia Railway and Power company, for whom he has worked for years, make him president?"
Promises Improvements.
Among the improvements which the speaker declared he would strive to build during his administration were viaducts spanning the railroad tracks at South Pryor and Central avenue and a viaduct on Euclid avenue at Springdale park. He said he would work for the widening of Courtland street and Piedmont avenue.
"If I am elected," he stated, "I will not sit down at city hall and draw the salary, but I will go out and visit the work that is going on for the city and will see that the taxpayers get value received for every dollar of their money."
Mr. Woodward said in his statement, which he issued Monday afternoon, that people who supported Sims in the first primary election coming to his aid by the hundreds and expressed confidence that he would receive the support of those who voted for Nutting, Beavers, Jackson and White.

Woodward's Statement.
His statement follows:
Mr. Woodward Confident.
Mr. Woodward's statement follows:
With my campaign managers, I have today made a careful canvass of the situation and am confident that I will be elected mayor on Wednesday. People who supported my opponent in the first race are coming out to me by the hundreds, and I am confident that I will receive the support of those who voted for Mr. Nutting, Chief Beavers, Mr. Jackson and Dr. White on September 6.
The mud-slinging campaign of Mr. Sims is not getting him anywhere. He is losing strength every day and his speeches are making many voices for me.
The people do not approve of a candidate for the high office of mayor injecting religious prejudice into his campaign. They do not approve of him making "bunches" his principal issue, when they know that the county and state authorities, and not the city government, are clothed with the power to handle matters of this character.
Makes Issue of Taylor.
Atlanta's voters do not intend to see Walter Taylor, the city hall political dictator, placed in complete control of their affairs. They know this is what will happen if Sims should be elected. Taylor is running Sims' campaign backed by the city hall political ring which he dominates.
My friends tell me every day that they resent Sims' policy of slinging mud about things supposed to have happened when I was mayor twenty years ago. All of the issues he has tried to raise were fought out during seven heated campaigns, and the voters know it.
In my opinion, this man Walter Taylor is the most dangerous person in city politics. He boasts that he controls the city council, and he may be right, as is shown by the fact that he has maneuvered around and had an amendment put through making his office elective by the council for four-year terms instead of elective by the people for two-year terms.
Why did Taylor do this? He knew he could not go before the voters and come out unscathed. He knew that to remove his office from the people would give him free-way to play politics day and night. During his own service, I doubt if he ever has done a month's work.
I bring Walter Taylor into this campaign for the reason that I know of my own knowledge that he is the man behind Walter Sims' guns. But he didn't get behind Sims until he had made every effort to get me in the race as his candidate.
Taylor came to me ten days before Sims announced and said he wanted me to run for mayor. He said he was in a position to finance my campaign. I told him I wanted to fight shy of him and his crowd, whether I ran or whether I didn't run. But he came back to see me saying he had arranged to have many of my old enemies back me if I would make the race. He mentioned Councilman Claude Ashby in this connection. I dismissed Taylor with the statement that I would have no more to do with him. Then he got busy and brought Sims into the race.
When I am elected—and I will be—I intend to make it hot for Walter Taylor. He will have to go to work. And I intend to fix the charter so the people, not council, may vote on him the next time he runs.
The fight is won if my friends will keep up the fight through the day of the primary. The issues in the campaign are clear-cut and the voters have been fully informed.
Would Clean Up Politics.
My election will forever clean up political rings and control the city by small group of politicians led by Walter Taylor. Mr. Sims' election would mean the perpetuation of that ring and would place the city in charge of Taylor, while Sims would be only a figurehead.
I bid my friends be of good cheer. The enemy has been routed and we will win the fight Wednesday for clean government and rule by the people themselves.
A sweeping victory in the run-over campaign in the mayor's race for Walter A. Sims in the election Wednesday is predicted by the Sims campaign committee in a statement issued Wednesday. The committee predicts the election of Sims by a vote of more than three to one over his opponent, James G. Woodward.

Sims Victory Sure.
The statement of the Sims campaign committee follows:
Walter A. Sims led in the first race for mayor by more than two to one over his nearest opponent, Mr. Woodward. In the primary Wednesday he will defeat Mr. Woodward by more than a three to one vote. The Woodward campaign has collapsed for the reason that Mr. Sims had the race won in the first election. In the second election his strength will be greatly increased by the votes he receives from men who supported Beavers, White and Jackson in the first campaign and from many voters who did not participate in the first election. By winning such a tremendous vote in the first election, Mr. Sims clearly demonstrated that he is the choice of the people of Atlanta for mayor. If there were anything about Sims which was offensive to the great bulk of Atlanta, there might be some chance for his opposition to combine against him.

His Record is Clean.
But because of the fact that Walter Sims' record is clean; his ability is well known and admitted; his fairness to men of all factions during his political activity is recognized; he is sure to obtain a bigger vote in the second race than in the first which will assure his election by a great majority.

In his campaign Mr. Sims avoided dealing in personalities and has stuck to the issues. He has expressed his determination to give Atlanta a clean and upright administration. He has assured the people he will work for more efficiency in the police department and has announced a constructive program which calls for the building of additional viaducts over the railway tracks and for a wise and judicious expenditure of the money derived from the bond issues for schools and constructive work.

Plans Best Administration.
On the eve of the election, after making a careful canvass of the entire situation, it is assured that Sims will win in the primary Wednesday by a huge majority and that he will go into office ready to give the city one of the best administrations the city has ever had, an administration that will strive to serve the best interests of all the people.

TO THE VOTERS OF ATLANTA
The undersigned taxpayers of Atlanta earnestly appeal to their fellow voters to go to the polls on Wednesday, September 20th, and vote for James G. Woodward for Mayor.
His long official experience, including three terms as Mayor of Atlanta, has demonstrated his HONESTY, COURAGE and thorough knowledge of city affairs.
This is no time to experiment or take chances. During the next two years about twenty million dollars of tax money will have to be administered, and Atlanta needs a man like Woodward at the helm.
If you do not go to the polls and vote, you have no right to complain if things go wrong. Eternal vigilance is the price that every voter must pay in order to secure an HONEST, open, intelligent and impartial administration of the city government.
Do your duty to your fellow taxpayers and to the city of Atlanta by voting for JAMES G. WOODWARD for Mayor.

Banquet to Form Climax Of Sulgrave Party's Day

A spontaneous and general expression of good will and cordial hospitality—that is what the banquet tonight in honor of the 1923 mission of the Sulgrave institution is planned to be. It will take place at 8 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving club, and will be the culmination of a busy day, the whole program designed to show the distinguished visitors appropriate honor and to maintain Atlanta's long established reputation for individual and spirited entertainment.

Last minute enthusiasm has doubled the number of reservations for the banquet, the culminating event of the program, and on this occasion of civic, social and business Atlanta will unite in welcome to the visitors.

Hunt Chiple is general chairman of this event, and he has associated with him on the several committees Atlanta's leading women as well as men of affairs.

The Sulgrave institution makes a point always of including in the mission of friendship to America some of the outstanding orators of England and her dominions. They have a real message to convey and it is important that they have the oratory to send their message home. Banquet speeches of a rare strength and interest may thus be anticipated.

The luncheon at Druid Hills club will assemble the local reception committee with the visitors, and the morning and afternoon automobile parties, conducted by Mrs. John E. Otley's committee, will see Atlanta in her most interesting aspects of historic meaning and beauty. Auspicious glimpses of Atlanta "at home" will be afforded the English, Canadian and Australian notables when the party stops for a little while and a cup of tea in the afternoon at "Woodhaven," the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Maddox, and "Cragellachie," the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grant.

Mayor Key, chairman of reception, and Mrs. Joseph Lamar, chairman of the local reception committee, will head the receiving groups.

When the automobile party stops at the Joseph H. Hershman Memorial hall after lunch they will be shown Mrs. Bailey's set up book with its full account of the organization of the Sulgrave institution and its scope in Great Britain and America, these records showing that Atlanta people have been in touch since the beginning with the institution and its friendly plan.

Box Holders Announced For Fashion Show of 1922

The "Fashion Show of 1922" to be given at the Auditorium Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, September 26 and 27, for the benefit of the bedside educational fund of the Scottish Rite hospital for Crippled Children, will be an event of social prominence, and among those who have engaged boxes for the two evenings are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lamar, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gregg, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Broyles, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Adair, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Riley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Dowdell Brown, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Roberts, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Hinman, Dr. and Mrs. Edgar Paulin, Mrs. Teresa Zalin and Willard McBurney.

The price announced for the six seated boxes is $24, while the four seated boxes will be sold for $16 for the two performances. There are a number of boxes to be sold for the fashion show. The chairman of the sale of boxes is Mrs. Edgar Paulin, Hemlock 1615, with Mrs. Thomas P.

Chambers-Field Wedding Takes Place in California

Miss Janet Chambers of Hollywood, and Agnew Fitzhugh Field, of Atlanta, Ga., were married recently in California. The ceremony was performed at high noon at St. Thomas' Episcopal church, Hollywood, the pastor, Rev. Frank Rowdenbush, officiating. The attendants were Mrs. Carl Ludwig Hansen, daughter of Mrs. Eugene Harrington, of Denison, as maid-of-honor, and Tom Coleman, of Los Angeles, formerly of Denison, Texas, best man.

The bride's wedding apparel was a seal brown duty suit with a French straw hat and smart complements. Mrs. Hansen was attired in a distinctive afternoon gown, and both young women wore corsage bouquets of roses.

The romance of Miss Chambers and Mr. Field, which was so happily culminated, is an interesting one. The two met seven weeks ago in Los Angeles, where Mr. Field, who was attending the Shriner's convention in San Francisco, stopped off in Los Angeles to visit Tom Coleman, an old schoolmate. An introduction to Miss Chambers followed and Cupid registered another case of love at first sight. In fact, so great was the intrigue of the little god of love, that Mr. Field permitted the Atlanta delegation to return to Atlanta without him.

Mrs. Field is the accomplished daughter of Mrs. Martha H. Chambers, of Hollywood, for years a Denison resident, and is popular in social circles here. She graduated from the Denison high school in 1917 and attended Baylor university at Waco following her graduation. In 1921 Miss Chambers entered the southern branch of the University of California for the study of journalism, and from time to time feature stories from her pen have appeared in California papers.

Mr. Field is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Franklin H. Field of Atlanta. He is an alumnus of Tulane university, and since receiving his degree has been very successful in business in Atlanta. Mr. Field was manager of the southwest branch of the Commercial Paper company the past few years, but recently resigned to accept a position in the bonding department of one of Los Angeles' prominent banks. He is a member of the Arab Shriners temple, a past secretary of the Atlanta Masonic club and an officer of Piedmont club.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Field sailed from San Pedro on the S. S. El Estero for San Francisco. Upon their return from the honeymoon journey they will be at home at the Frederick Enfield Hollywood residence 1820 Mission Place, which the bridegroom has leased during the owner's absence abroad.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Mrs. Eugene Harrington will entertain at her home, 160 Barkdale drive, in compliance to Miss Louise Campbell, whose marriage to Donald H. Jones, of Fort Wayne, Ind., will be an interesting social event of October 4.

There will be a reception at Mayor James L. Key's office for the Sulgrave mission at 10:15 o'clock.

There will be a luncheon at Druid Hills Golf club for the Sulgrave mission.

The banquet at the Piedmont Driving club for the Sulgrave mission.

There will be a dinner-dance on the roof garden of the Capital City club.

The usual weekly luncheon of the league will be held at the Ansley hotel at 12:30. Miss Louise Bentley, fifth ward chairman, will preside and introduce the speaker of the occasion, who will be Burr Blackburn, secretary of the Board of Public Welfare.

Miss Lucy Candler will entertain at a matinee party at the Forsyth theater.

Bankhead Highway Tour Leaves Atlanta Wednesday

The officers of the Bankhead National Highway association have arranged a tour across the states of Georgia and South Carolina, starting from Atlanta on September 20, they will visit Mableton, Villa Rica, Bowdon and Carrollton.

On September 21, Tallapoosa, Bremen, Douglasville and Austell will be visited; with Decatur, Stone Mountain, Lawrenceville and Winder as the destinations on September 22; while on September 23, Athens, Royston and Hartwell will include the tour.

Programs are being arranged by the local authorities at these places and it is desirous that the women shall take part in welcoming the visitors.

Mrs. Albert E. Thornton is president of the women's commission of the Bankhead National Highway association. She urges that the women, through their highway committee, clubs and patriotic societies, call the women to plan appropriate receptions for the tourists.

M. RICH & BROS. CO.

Home Dressmakers' Week

Presenting Unusual Saving Opportunities to Women Who Sew and to Those Who Supervise the Making of Their Clothes

EVERYTHING here to make the work a pleasure. And special prices this week to make your efforts decidedly profitable. You know Rich's for smart silks or woolsens to cotton fabrics of certified quality. Now is truly the time to start Fall sewing—to save enough on a dress or suit length to pay for a new hat or blouse.

Now Is Certainly the Time to Save Most On Autumn Silks at Rich's

SILKS are so beautiful, so crisply fresh and new, that one's fingers fairly tingle to get to work on them, or to take shimmering lengths to one's favorite seamstress and help her to plan delightful Autumn dresses. Assortments here in the "First Silk Store of the South" were never more complete. There are silks of every kind, for every purpose—the necessary staples and the newest novelties—from the best American mills together with importations. A few groups are very specially priced for Dressmakers' Week.

What Determines the Value of a Diamond?

Size alone does not determine the value of a Diamond. Color, cutting, what you would be able to resell for—or the value of the stone to you—all have a definite part in determining Diamond values.

Davis & Freeman Diamonds are so carefully graded that every stone is marked at the correct price—and you get exactly what you think you are getting.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

ON GUEST BOOKS.
I want to tell you about a most interesting guest book which I saw the other day.

No, I don't wonder that you pass through a spasm of distaste at the sight of that phrase, guest book. I know just how you feel.

If there is anything in the world I hate it's a guest book in which you are expected to write not only your name but some touching or amusing sentiment.

There ought to be a law against them.

Never would I willingly go to a house if I knew that such a deadly contraption was hidden in mine host's desk.

Write Something Original.
But this is the worst of it, you never do know because it always is hidden until the time for your departure draws near. Then your hostess suddenly appears with it and says brightly: "Oh, I want you to write in my guest book. Write your name and then write something original."

You look around for something to crawl under, then seeing nothing that looks adequate you accept the pen she thrusts into your hand and look at the bright sayings the other guests have produced, while you make useless protestations.

The bright sayings usually run something like this: "Oh, you clams."

"I'll tell the world Ada can spend more time dressing than any chicken in this state."

"A fine view, cordial hosts, and a wonderful dinner."

Some Idiotic Sentiment.
You get your hostess to translate the bright illusions and think thereby to distract her attention and keep her going until train time. But she has had that experience before, and you finally perpetrate some absolutely idiotic sentiment, the memory of which makes you turn cold when you wake up in the middle of the next night and remember that it is inscribed in that guest book under your name. I wonder if there have ever been cases where, what seemed mysterious some robbery was merely some guest returning to try and tear out the page on which he had inscribed himself an idiot.

An I wonder that murder has never been committed when some hostess trapped a man in this way. In such a case could it not be called self defense?

To return to the interesting guest book (and considering the fact that I've used up most of my space in ranting about its abominable relative, it's high time I did so), it was kept by an original friend of mine and was used to make guests happier, not to torture them.

A Pleasant Guest Book.
In this hostess kept a record of all her guests' special preferences in the way of food and other comforts. Consequently the guest who never ate eggs in the morning was delighted the next time he came by having his preference remembered, and the guest who adored flapjacks was served them the next time he came, and the guest who preferred mayonnaise to french dressing found it ready for him.

Not an awful lot of trouble and a very gracious count, don't you think? Let's start an association to get a law passed that all the other kinds of guest books shall be thrown away and these substituted in their place.

Tomorrow—Those Crazy Sentiments.

The Constitution's Patterns

3723 A PRETTY DRESS FOR THE SMALL GIRL.

Pattern 3723 was used to make this design. It is cut in four sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. An 8-year size requires 3 3/4 yards of 27-inch material. Dotted Swiss, percale, seersucker, ginghams, chambray, poplin, pongee, voile, batiste, embroideries, gabs, fine, chaille and silk could be used for this model. The sleeve may be in wrist or elbow length.

A SMART FROCK FOR THE GROWING GIRL.
Pattern 3466 is shown in this illustration. It is cut in four sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. A 1-year size will require 4 1/4 yards of 44-inch material. This model is attractive for plaid and plain suiting used together, and is good also for wash fabrics, such as gingham, percale, chambray, poplin and repp.

A COOL AND COMFORTABLE DRESS.
4118, "Just like mother's sleeveless blouse," is this charming model with its sash ends, and long waist portions. The skirt is mounted on an underbody, that may be of lining. As here portrayed, English crepe was used with binding of black satin.

The pattern is cut in four sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10-year size requires 3 1/2 yards of 32-inch material. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our up-to-date fall and winter 1922-1923 Book of Fashions.

In ordering patterns write name and address plainly on a sheet of paper. Order by number and inclose price in silver or stamps. Do not mail letters to The Constitution Building in Atlanta, but address as follows: Fashion Department, be Atlanta Constitution, 1188-9 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

TWO CANDIDATES FILE ACCOUNT OF EXPENSES

Two candidates in the recent state primary filed their expense accounts Monday with the state comptroller. Judge Hamilton, of Rome, candidate for the court of appeals, spent a total of $475, while Judge Marcus Beck, candidate for reelection as justice of the supreme court, spent $150, the amount of his entrance fee. Judge Hamilton was defeated by Judge H. G. Bell, while Judge Beck had no opposition.

All candidates in the recent primary are required by law to file a statement of expenses within 20 days after the election.

Are You Fat? Just Try This

Thousands of overfat people have become slim by following the advice of doctors who recommend Marmola Prescription Tablets. These harmless little fat reducers that simplify the diet of the fat person. If too fat, don't wait—go now to your druggist and for one dollar, which is the price the world over, procure a case of these tablets. If preferable you can secure them direct by sending price to the Marmola Co., 4012 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. They reduce steadily and easily without tireless exercise or starvation diet and leave no unpleasant effect.—(adv.)

To Make Hairs Vanish From Face, Neck or Arms

(Beauty Culture)
Keep a little powdered delatone handy and when hairy growths appear make a paste with some of the powder and a little water, then spread over hairy surface. After 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be entirely free from hair or blemish. This simple treatment is unfailing, but care should be exercised to procure a genuine delatone, otherwise you may be disappointed.—(adv.)

DO YOU WONDER, ASKS THIS LADY

"That I'm a Believer in Cardui?"—Got So Weak She Had to Go to Bed—But Read Her Story.

Oswatimie, Kans.—Mrs. E. E. Keast, formerly of Illinois, residing here, says: "We moved to this state eleven years ago, and I had good health for a long while; and then some year or so ago I had a bad sick spell."

"I got so weak I couldn't go. I couldn't stand on my feet at all. I had to go to bed."

"I suffered a great deal. I was so nervous I couldn't live. I was everything had the best of attention, yet I wasn't able to get up."

"I lay for three months, not able to do anything. My husband is a bill poster and has circulars distributed. One day there came to be a Ladies' Birthday Almanac among his circulars. I read it, and told some of the family to get me a bottle of Cardui. They laughed and said I wouldn't take it. But I did, began with a tablespoonful every two hours."

"I kept it up and continued to improve until I was a well woman. 'Do you wonder that I am a believer in Cardui?' I certainly am. And I am sure there is no better tonic made for women than Cardui."

All druggists sell Cardui, for women.—(adv.)

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Lemons.
When only half a lemon is needed, place the other half on a dish, cut side down, and put in the refrigerator. It will keep quite a while in this manner.

Did You Know?
That "Java and Mocha" are no longer used to indicate the country from which the coffee is imported, but as trade names simply to signify the quality of the blend?

Restoring Flannels.
Flannels that have been mistreated and become hard and shrunken from washing, can be restored to their former softness by soaking in gasoline. Add a few drops of ammonia to the gasoline and the odor of the gasoline will not be detected.

This and That.
Stale bread is best for chicken filling.

Hot vinegar will remove paint stains from windows.

Rhubarb and strawberries make an excellent filling for tarts.

Clean the window shades with a rough flannel cloth dipped in flour. Time and trouble will be saved by putting snaps on your sofa cushion covers.

COX COLLEGE OPENING PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

Plans for the formal opening of Cox college, which is beginning its 80th term this year, were announced Monday by Dr. W. M. Jones.

The formal opening of the college will take place Friday evening, September 22, when an interesting program, arranged by the heads of the various departments, will be presented.

Dr. Kraemer, head of the piano department, a talented musician, will play. Miss Battle, of the voice department, will sing several selections. Mrs. R. C. Cooper will give a violin solo, and Mrs. Mitchell will give several selections.

Atlanta people and friends of Cox college are especially invited to attend the formal opening. The auditorium of the school will seat 1,000.

U. S. AGENTS HERE TO GET INSTRUCTION

Deputy collectors of internal revenue throughout the state assembled at the federal building Monday for a one-week school of instructions to be conducted at the office of Collector J. J. Rose.

Instructions in all federal tax matters will be given the deputies by Chief Field Deputy Granger.

Those in attendance are: Dr. O. Barwell, division chief; J. J. Griffin, Z. W. Jones, A. L. Martin, R. L. Griffin, Jr., and E. E. Paetz, of Atlanta; C. D. Orkeley, of Lithia Springs; C. W. Pettit, of Griffin; W. W. Wade, of Athens; R. P. Hefester, of Rome; W. P. Bell, of Macon; G. W. Brown, of Fitzgerald; H. Davenport, of Thomaston; E. Hill, of Albany; John B. Kleffer, division chief, of Savannah; A. A. Cook, of Savannah; J. A. Parsons, of Waycross; J. S. Sutton, of Swainsboro.

The Housewife's Idea Box

Street frock shown by Doeillet in his Paris collection for American women. The material is hammered metal, dull black. There is a black satin girdle and high collar.

But it influences other fashions. That's where any one fashion is important when it is new and creates a new style.

In black it is very effective for day clothes. In gold and silver it is worn in the evening. The gown in the sketch by Doeillet, who offered it to the American buyers, is a one-piece frock with a scalloped hem and a high collar and girdle of black satin. With it is a hat of the material run through with a burnt orange quill. The mannequin looks as though she were dressed in supple dull leather.

Worth produces a gown of this material which is intended for the day and there are also gold ones on which are stamped dark red and yellow autumn leaves. This is the new Binachini which costs as much as an income tax.

These matelasse materials do not cost gowns of smooth cloth. Broadcloth and every weave of crepe continue. The best dressmakers show them in abundance. Plain crepe de chine, not the crepe or pebbled, is made up into the best frocks as though it were a new fabric.

Gabrielle Chanel, who started the Russian movement last winter, and whose clothes have delighted American women who are here buying their winter clothes, shows an endless array of these smooth crepe frocks in black, cinnamon brown, almond green, fuchsia red. They rarely have applied ornamentation, dependent for grace on the skill of tucks and gathers and hems.

WOMAN TOO WEAK TO WALK

Now Works Nine Hours a Day.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Strength

Union Village, Vt.—"I was weak and nervous and all run-down. I could not walk across the floor without resting, and I had been that way for weeks. I saw your advertisement in the paper and after taking one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt the good it was doing me and I took seven more in all. Before I finished I was able to work nine hours a day in a steam laundry. I cannot say too much in favor of your medicine. I trust all sick and suffering women will take it. It has been two years since I took it and I am strong and well."—Mrs. L. A. GUTMANN, Union Village, Vermont.

This is only one of such letters we are continually publishing showing what Lydia E. Pinkham has done for women. Mrs. Gutmann's letter should interest you.

Many women get into a weak, nervous, run down condition because of ailments they often have. Such women should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the first sign of trouble.

DRESS BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

There is a Continuance of Matelasse Fabrics, But They Have Taken a Different Surface From Those of Last Spring. The Expensive Ones Look Like Beaten Damascus Brass and the Black Ones Look Like Antique Spanish Leather.

Paris—A year ago the French dress-makers used a material by Rodier which was an imitation of fabric worn in the nineteenth century and called by a different name. In France it was rechristened "cloky."

After a while there was so much of this material in several forms that it changed its name to matelasse. That meant anything. Whatever had a raised surface carrying out any kind of design was matelasse.

The surface reminded one of tracks made by a mole in its underground meanderings.

In America the fabric was not over-worn as it was here, but there is promise of wide popularity for it this winter.

It will come along with jumper jackets, bandanna handkerchiefs worn about the shoulders and crowns of hats, all of which Paris has worn since February.

The matelasse fabric of the hour is called crepe frappe. It is too expensive for the ordinary mortal. It belongs in the seventh heaven of sailor suit or middie blouse has been chosen for a uniform, so many of the children appear in that type of dress. Even in warmer weather the washable sailor suits are worn. Some mothers select washable middie blouses to be worn with dark skirts over bloomers for the entire year.

Among the older girls slip-on sweaters worn with neat cuffs and collars or over shirtwaists with cuffs and collars showing, are very generally selected.

Transparent silk stockings are gradually going by the board for school hours. Silk and wool mixed stockings, though expensive, wear extremely well and do not appear over elaborate.

The young girl who does not take very kindly to plain clothes at school hours can often be converted if she is reminded that one of the greatest charms a girl can possess is variety. To be able to wear dainty dancing slippers and a pretty evening frock to advantage in the evening, and then to appear next day completely transformed into an athletic young person in sailor suit, straight-heeled shoes, adds to her winsomeness.

U. S. Aid Needed In Europe, Says Werner S. Byck

Industrial conditions in Germany today have the people completely awed, is the opinion of Werner S. Byck, president and treasurer of Byck Brothers Shoe company, who has just returned from a three months' tour of England, Belgium, France, Italy, Switzerland and Austria.

Mr. Byck's trip, he declared, was taken solely for the purpose of pleasure and recreation. He was about to leave for a Constitution representative at his office Monday he stated that he had thoroughly enjoyed his vacation and had experienced no unpleasantness whatever during his stay abroad.

"I found no discrimination in prices to Americans," said Mr. Byck, "in any of the countries visited, as I was at all times treated with every possible courtesy. I went away with the intention of resting and during my stay I attempted no business whatever."

"However, in my travels I saw remarkable displays of merchandise. In England prices were higher than in the U. S. but in France, Germany and Switzerland the fact that the pound sterling has a comparatively high rate of exchange.

Wonderful Goods.
"In Paris I saw some wonderful goods displayed, and my observations were that business was about normal in the French capital. France, it is true, has beautiful gowns and hats. In fact, Paris goods in all lines are remarkable for style, material and workmanship, with the sole exception of footwear. The French people may be able to excel in gowns or hats, but they must come to America for shoes. Nothing of French make can compare with American shoes, either for style or fit. The only passably decent footwear I saw in Paris was in American shoe shops. They simply can't touch the American shoe on any count."

"Having gone over solely for the purpose of resting from business, I made no actual attempt to study business conditions of the countries visited. Only through general observation did I gather any impression along these lines, and these came from the general public, as I talked with no big business men."

"In Germany the conditions were such that I learned more concerning business than in any other country. Here I found the value of the mark decreasing rapidly, the falling market seemed awed—they don't know what to do. In some instances I learned that business was being brought to a standstill on account of the falling mark. People were reluctant to sell, in view of the fact that the price obtained might, under the conditions of the falling mark, place the seller at a disadvantage about replacing the article sold."

Filling Contracts.
"Doesn't this practically paralyze the German export trade?" was asked of Mr. Byck.

"I couldn't say about that. Contracts already made are being filled, but in my opinion it is very doubtful whether any new business is being booked under the present conditions, for the past three weeks at least and the natural presumption would be that this is affecting the export trade materially."

"From your observations, what will be necessary before Europe can be placed on a sound economic footing again?"

"Europe will have to have help from the outside. Those countries over there refuse to trust each other—therefore it is my belief that a commission of some kind from the United States will have to furnish them with the plans for effecting their financial salvation. Only from America can be sent help which would be trusted by all concerned, and confidence is absolutely necessary before anything like order can be brought out of the present chaos."

Golden Rod:—The henna shampoo will enrich the shade of your faded blonde hair, but you should have the full directions for producing different tints, so send a stamped addressed envelope for them mailed to you. They would take up too much space to print here.

Anxious:—There is no risk in having plastic surgery performed if you have selected a reliable specialist.

Rosa:—Since the young man shows that he prefers other girls to you, try to forget him and become interested in other people. I think your difficulty in losing so many friends is the result of showing so much anxiety about pleasing them. Take your friends more naturally and go out more so you will cultivate an easy manner. You will meet plenty of young men quite as desirable as this one who is no longer yours, since he does not reciprocate your good feeling toward him.

Carrie Jane:—Your trouble is nervousness, which has been increased by so many people alluding to your symptoms. A girl of 18 years should not run the sewing machine to any extent, unless you use a motor; if it is foot-power, the machine should not be a heavy one and the wheel should not be done for any great length of time. The exercise you will get from playing tennis or walking and climbing will be much better for you than that from the efforts at the machine.

Harry Pomar To Direct Program At Cable Hall

The Little Theatre Guild of Atlanta, will meet at Cable hall, Wednesday evening, September 20, at 8 o'clock. A splendid program, under the direction of Harry Pomar, is being arranged and every member of the Guild is particularly invited to be present and bring interested friends, as this will probably be the most important meeting held by this organization.

Besides the very artistic musical program being provided for that evening, business of great importance to the Guild members is to be transacted. A revised constitution, which will permit of a broader working plan, is to be presented for the ratification of the members. Those who have drawn up the new constitution had in mind the definite aims of our Little Theatre Guild, which are to give drama with a literary quality, to have the drama acted and staged with sincerity and artistry—in short, to have the Little Theatre express the ideals of the community, to make the theatre a place where good drama, wholesome amusements, and intellectual recreation may be enjoyed, a place where may be seen those plays seldom seen on the commercial stage, and finally to encourage the creative spirit of the people.

With such aims the Little Theatre Guild is proving a mecca for artists interested in the theatre—whether as play-wrights, musicians, actors, scenic or costume designers. All who love the theatre and wish to lend their talents or their helpful advice and encouragement as subscribing members are invited to join this organization. The dues are six dollars a year, which entitle the members to enjoyment of our monthly programs as well as two tickets to all productions. The Guild plans to produce not less than four dramatic productions during the winter season, and others if possible.

The program for Wednesday is as follows:
Violin solo: (a) Serenade espagnole (Chaminade-Krieger); (b) Melody in A major (Dawson), Harry Pomar.
Vocal solos: (a) Life (Curnan); (b) Banjo Song (Homer), Eric Farley, baritone.
Monologue (selected), Walter Marvin.
Violin solo: Guitarero (Ortiz), Mr. Pomar.
Vocal solo: Your Presence (Pomar), Mr. Farley.
Vocal solo with obligato (selected), Mr. Farley and Mr. Pomar.
All accompaniments by Miss Glennie Hancock.

The Home in Good Taste

BY HAROLD DONALDSON EBERLEIN

Joint Author of "Practical Book of Interior Decoration," Etc.

No. 68—Arrangement and Suitable Furniture for the Hall.

The function, that is, the use, of a room comes before all other considerations in its arrangements.

The hall is the anteroom to the drawing room, living room and dining room of the house. It is the first part of the house that is seen—and the last. Therefore the impression that it conveys is most important.

It should give the keynote of color and personal charm to the rest of the house, and should be furnished with such objects, first, as are necessary to an arriving or departing guest, or a messenger who may be detained there, and second, if space permits, with supplementary objects of suitable character.

The first necessity is a table. It may be a console or one of our grand mother's folding card tables. Above it should hang, at a height convenient to the average person, a mirror, and beside or opposite to this group should be a chair of formal and dignified design.

The table may hold a lamp, a card tray, a bowl or vase for flowers, and the smallest hall is at once welcoming and charming. Should proportions permit, an oak chest may well be added.

BECAUSE this man lived, the destiny of the world was changed. Thrones have fallen. Maps have been re-drawn. Men have followed strange new beliefs.

It all happened in our own generation. We have seen new history made . . . because of a man named Wilhelm Hohenzollern.

And now this man has written the chapters of this new history.

From his place of exile in Holland, the man who was once an emperor, with a dream of world-power, has given his story to the world.

A prejudiced account it is, . . . of course, . . . written from the point of view of German imperialism. It is bitter at times. It reveals fantastic ideas. . . Here and there it echoes a note of regret over the "times that have been."

Throughout the course of this 80,000-word narrative you will observe the fallen monarch—the world-figure who failed in his ambition.

Few have read the Ex-Kaiser's manuscript, but those who have pronounce it a most absorbing narrative of German history, politics and war operations.

You will be one of the first to read The Ex-Kaiser's Memoirs. You will find it easy to read—in installment form. It is history—very interesting history. You cannot afford to miss reading it.

Secret Practice Starts at Tech; Only Students to See Workouts

Season Ticket Sale in Full Swing—Hard Scrimmage
Marks Monday's Practice—Mitchell Stars.

BY JOHN STATON.

Coch Alexander wishes to announce through the medium of the press that, beginning this afternoon, and continuing indefinitely, all practices at Grant field will be secret. That is, only students will be allowed to watch the afternoon fun. This news will come as a surprise to many who have been faithful in attending the workouts of the boys, but Coach

Alexander thought it advisable. From now on, the team will be greatly concerned with the plays that it will use during all the games of the season. Each play will be necessarily explained in detail should anyone not a friend to Tech see the play each afternoon, it would be a simple matter to chart practically every play that the team will use during the entire season. The coaches are team appreciators of the interest manifested by a great many people in coming out to the workouts, but for the best interests of the team, and a successful season, it was thought best to close the doors of the field to the public for a while.

Season tickets have been placed on sale at a great many of the leading drug stores, etc. Many people have noticed that all sections were not represented and wondered why. The reason is that three sections have already been sold to the alumni. In all the eastern institutions the alumni are given preference of seats. And in many institutions it is necessary to procure all seats for the alumni. It seems that the Harvard-Yale games are worked on that plan. That is, only the alumni have the right to purchase tickets. Outsiders who desire a ticket must get one from some alumni of either institution. The alumni of an institution naturally deserve preference, so the athletic association conducted a season ticket sale from September 1 to 15. Three sections were put on sale. Sections E, F and G. There are 543 seats to a section, and practically the whole of these three sections have been sold. In other words something like 1,500 ex-Tech men have season tickets. Of course, a great many bought two, some three, and so on.

Sections for Public.
Sections C, D, I and N are on sale to the public. Sections C and I are about the 20-yard line, H is about the 30-yard line. Section N is right slap in the center of the field in the wooden stands. Many people prefer the wooden stands because it gets the sun in cold weather. The whole of N is for sale, and the seats are as good as any that could be bought. The price of the season ticket is $14.50.

Another scrimmage, a little less bloody than the one on Saturday perhaps, but just as vicious, occurred at Grant field yesterday. The two teams which lined up represented fragments of last year's varsity and practically all of last year's freshman team. "Red" Barron, captain of the team for the coming season, was given his first taste of the dirty work yesterday. And it was a big one, too. "Red" went back to his old post at right half, and walked away with things in general. On the first play of the scrimmage, with the ball resting quietly in the center of the field, "red," in a short buck through the line, got loose and ran through the whole ex-freshman team for the first touchdown of the afternoon.

Coch Alexander's babies had the ball nearly the entire afternoon, pushing the ball almost all over the field fighting ex-freshmen. Don Hartford, playing left half for Alexander's men, carried the ball on a short end run to the freshman five yard line. Right at this point was the best demonstration of the afternoon.

Teams Tighen.
Both teams tightened up, playing fierce football. The yellow shirts made three unsuccessful attempts to pass, but the ex-fresh line, backed up on the goal posts and rearing at the exhortations of Kid Clay, held stubbornly to those five yards.

On the last down Davis slipped through a wedge hole for the bars. He caught three or four during the afternoon. Mitchell made a beautiful start on the ball, caught it and raced about forty for a goal. Mitch is going to be as good as this year. He is unusually fast, and shifty. He was in or about every play that came off, many times breaking through the opposing line and throwing the runners for a bad loss. On offense, he moved them as if they had been made of wood. If Mitchell doesn't turn out to be one of the premier guards in the whole south this season, then it will be because he breaks his neck or suffers some minor injury.

For the first time in the history of Grant field the new try for point after touchdown was attempted. After Mitchell's touchdown, the two teams lined up on the five yard line. The yellow jerseys in possession of the ball. They lined up in punt formation and Henry Reeves ran back to kicker's place. The ball was snapped, and a drop kick attempted. The first trial was unsuccessful. Other trials were made with more success. In fact, for the whole afternoon, the record was 6 points added out of 9 trials at the goal. If such results can be accomplished in a game, then the point after touchdown will not prove to be such a problem after all.

GIANTS WIN

New York, September 18.—The Giants got an even break in their four game series with Cincinnati by winning today 7 to 2. The victory also gave the Giants their season's series against the Reds, 12 games to 10. As Pittsburgh divided a double header with the Phillies, the champions increased their lead to 6 full games. Coach was easy for the Giants, who bunched hits in the second and the sixth for all their runs.

WILLIAM A. HANSELL

Chief of Construction

Received Highest Vote in Primary

After investigation of the qualifications of the two candidates for Chief of Construction I was unanimously endorsed for this important place by the Atlanta Affiliated Technical Societies, composed of the American Society of Civil Engineers

American Institute of Architects
American Institute of Electrical Engineers
American Association of Engineers
American Institute of Mining Engineers

And this fact was published in the news items of all the daily papers.

My contract with the MacDougald Construction Company, to which my opponent refers, expired December 31st, 1921, since which time I have been a Consulting Engineer. The following statement from Alonzo Richardson & Company, Certified Public Accountants, is given in proof:

GEORGIA—FULTON COUNTY

Personally appeared before me the undersigned, an officer in and for said county, authorized to administer oaths, Alonzo Richardson, who, after being duly sworn, says that he is a certified public accountant and operates his business under the name of Alonzo Richardson & Company.

Dependent audits annually the books of the MacDougald Construction Company and is familiar with all of its affairs, contracts and obligations. Dependent says that the contract between William A. Hansell and the MacDougald Construction Company expired on December 31st, 1921.

(Signed) ALONZO RICHARDSON,
Sworn to and subscribed before me this, the 15th, day of September, 1922.
M. G. BELLENEAU,
Notary Public, Georgia, State at Large.

J. D. Dorsett, for the past six years connected with the Construction Department, to whom my opponent also refers, was aligned with Mr. Lotspeich, but since the first election he is voluntarily supporting me as he realizes I am best qualified for the position though he will not be in the Construction Department if I am elected.

If you elect me, I will organize an efficient Street Department and promptly and properly maintain and repair our streets.

Your vote and support will be appreciated by me and my friends.

THEATERS

Week's Films Recommended
By Better Films Committee

Every picture at every theater in Atlanta this week has been reviewed by the Better Film Committee of Atlanta, and each recommended as a production of the highest type and suited to the family group.

Atlanta Theater—Thursday, Friday, Saturday (matinee Saturday), "Lady Bull."

Forsyth Theater—All week, "Forsyth plays in 'Scrambled Wives'."

Lyric Theater (Keith vaudeville)—See advertising for program.

Low's Grand Theater (vaudeville and pictures)—See advertising for program.

Howard Theater—All week, Wallace Reid and Bebe Daniels in "Nice People," and other screen features.

Keith Vaudeville.
(At the Lyric.)

Scored on a basis of 100, the bill at the Lyric for the first part of the week should be rated about 75 per cent entertaining.

Patrice and Sullivan, a blonde boy and a brunette girl bubbling over with syncopation opened. He played the piano and she sang and played a violin. Her costumes were fetching, and her violin playing excellent.

Jim and Betty Page had a long string of jokes, some old and some new. Bond and Wilson and company, in "Superstition," listed as a one-act farce, did well. Billy Wilson, the cork comedienne, who was "superstition personified" was responsible for the flavor the act contained.

Joe McGarran and Johnny Palace, who appeared on the bill as "Volumes of Harmony," sang duets.

The Canary opera, that concluded the bill, was a big hit. Joseph Belmont and Mary Fulton, of the old school of variety entertainers, featured some twenty-odd canaries that sang beautifully. Their closing number was "The Canary Opera."

"Scrambled Wives" Proves Most Entertaining Comedy

"Scrambled Wives" was not a New York success. Wherefore it is not at all strange that "Scrambled Wives" is one of the liveliest, funniest most thoroughly entertaining comedies that Atlanta has had the pleasure of witnessing in many seasons.

Done by the Forsyth players in the most finished fashion in which they have presented everything in weeks, and as she played the entire company played. John Lidel was never happier than as the ardent suitor, while Gus Forbes found the ex-husband an appealingly humorous part that he treated in his usual compelling fashion. Orris Holland, as always, gave a spirited and warming performance, as did the ever reliable Misses Baker and Givens.

Josephine Saxe, as the flapper second venture of the scrambled wife, was a joy and a delight, while Ruth Peckler, a newcomer to the Players, dainty and winsome as one wants to see, was sweet and girlish to that degree that the audience hated to see her cast in a rather cutthroat part.

Her charms, however, were over all obstacles that the role presented and her future appearances will be eagerly awaited.

FUZZY WOODRUFF.

sparking bits of vaudeville and Gibson & Price in a splendid juggling act.

The feature of the screen bill is Alice Lake, in "Kisses."

"Nice People." (At the Howard.)

"Nice People," now at the Howard, owes its origin to one of the season's notable stage successes—Rachel Crothers' play of the same name which delighted New York and other eastern audiences for months.

It seems that the Forsyth players knew that their vehicle was a good one, for they played with more dash and vim than they have exhibited this month. Maybe, it was the cooler weather, and maybe it was something else, but whatever it was, it got hold of the audience and the players at one and the same time, which is about the best receipt for a successful show.

Miss Frances Woodbury, playing her final week with the Players, had decidedly her best comedy role and she played it in decidedly the best form she has yet shown in Atlanta. And as she played the entire company played. SENATE TO VOTE ON TARIFF TODAY

Washington, September 18.—The tariff will probably be on its way to the white house Tuesday night. By unanimous consent, the senate has agreed to vote on the conference report at 4 o'clock Tuesday.

Passage is a foregone conclusion with all senators voting regularly. Repeating Senators Borah and La Follette, who will probably vote against the report. Senators Broussard and Handell, democrats, may vote against the measure. With this measure out of the way, and a minimum of debate over President Harding's probable veto of the bonus, congress may be expected to adjourn by Saturday.

House Routine.—The house is carrying on with a routine calendar and should be ready to quit as soon as the bonus debate is cleared. The senate, according to administration leaders, has no intention of departing from its legislative program, although contrary rumors concerning the Dyer anti-lynching bill have been current during the last few days.

"We're going to pass the Dyer bill, the Librarian loan and the coal commission bill in some form or other before we adjourn," one administration leader told the United News Monday. "And we are going to adjourn soon."

The Librarian loan is the unfinished business before the senate. The future of the Borah coal commission bill, however, is not bright. House conferees have forced a deadlock on the nationalization features of the bill, and Senator Borah has insisted he would not be a party to any colorless legislation. A further attempt to reach an agreement, will be made within the next few days.

Overrules Point.—This new burst of speed by the senate was made possible Monday, when Senator Cummins, president pro tempore, overruled the point of order raised by Senator Simmons, leading minority conference member, that the conferees had exceeded their authority with respect to the presidential powers feature of the bill. Cummins was sustained by the senate in his ruling after Simmons had made an appeal from the chair.

Most of the day's debate was taken up by Simmons, who attacked the bill in all of its salient particulars.

FLEET IS ORDERED TO DARDANELLES

ington to discuss measures for the defense of the capital and the straits. The meeting is expected to bring out the complete unity of the British, French and Italian forces.

It was ascertained that only 20,000 Greek soldiers remain under arms out of the army of 250,000. These are in Thrace, retention of which territory by Greece is seriously doubted here.

General M. C. J. Pelle, French high commissioner, started for Smyrna last night to confer with Mustafa Kemal Pasha at the latter's special request. It is assumed the nationalist leader desires to ascertain the extent of which France intends to fulfill the obligations undertaken by her treaty with the Anglo-greek government.

CABINET ORDERS TROOPS READY.

London, September 18.—Although the British government is attempting to calm the fears of war which have arisen as a result of the Near East crisis, and is promising to use force only as a last resort, it is nevertheless accelerating military and naval preparations for the defense of the Dardanelles.

Downing street, despite its effort to keep the public calm, announces that the British empire will undertake to ward off Turkish aggression alone, if necessary, without relying on the assistance of France and Italy.

The cabinet, after consultation with the chiefs of British army, navy and air service, not only decided to reinforce the British empire, but issued orders that the various forces should move themselves ready to move whenever necessary. Developments are so rapid that the cabinet will meet again Tuesday.

Thanks Colonials.—Premier Lloyd George has telegraphed to the premiers of Australia and New Zealand that their prompt responses to his call for assistance "were received with enthusiasm here."

The "empire," Lloyd George added, "cannot consent to sacrifice the results of the gallant struggle and the national victory its sons have won in the eastern theater."

No replies have been received from Canada and South Africa.

The temper of the British government, was disclosed in the decision to hold no peace conference on the near east until Kemal Pasha, the Turkish nationalist military chief, assures the allied governments that he will respect the neutral zone around the Dardanelles.

Dardanelles Is Issue.—The integrity of the Dardanelles, which was internationalized by the treaty of Sevres, appears to be the immediate issue in the near east situation. If the Turks show a willingness to keep this strategic gateway open on equal terms to all nations, Great Britain will attempt to reach a settlement by negotiations. But all talk of a peace conference with Kemal is definitely suspended until the Turks give evidence of their intention regarding the Dardanelles.

The British empire, it was said, is prepared to defend the straits unaided. Preparations are being made on this basis.

However, the government still hopes that France will join. Lord Curzon, British foreign minister, will go to Paris Tuesday to discuss the situation.

The mission, it is understood, is to learn the position of France regarding military operations against the Turks, if they are necessary. There were some disclosures manifested at what was described as the "evanescent" of France in response to the allies to make joint military action in the near east of the Turks attempt to cross the straits.

Intimations from Paris are that France is not prepared to make military action at present. Lord Curzon may try to persuade Premier Poincaré to alter his position.

Highlanders Embark.—An idea of the scope of the British military and naval preparations is gained from the fact that Admiral Beatty and Sir Hugh Frenchard, chief of the air force, attended Monday's cabinet meeting in addition to the chief of staff of the army.

The first battalion of Gordon Highlanders consisting of 1,000 men, has embarked at Newcastle on Tuesday. Special details of heavy and field artillery were also sent.

Lloyd George's aggressive Near East policy has stirred up some opposition here. Some of his supporters declare that his appeal to the allies to join in the use of force against Kemal was one of the worst blunders of his political career. The Daily Mail, owned by the Northcliffe estate, is bitter in its criticism.

Bitter Editorial.—"The public has learned with astonishment and dismay that Premier Lloyd George is organizing a new war in the Near East after committing every conceivable blunder in Turkey-Greek relations," The Mail says. "His policy borders on insanity. This new war must be stopped. The problem can be solved by a single firing of shot. We believe the whole country will repudiate Lloyd George's war-mongering demand."

Crowds gathered in Downing street to watch the cabinet members file into the premier's official residence for the important deliberations. When they saw the Earl of Cavan and Admiral Beatty enter, carrying maps and dispatches, the question, "Is it war?" ran through the crowd as it did in the tense days of August, 1914.

But there was an apparent attempt in government circles to cool off the war-like atmosphere, after officials had noted the apathetic reception greeted the announcement of war plans at home and abroad.

Labor Against War.—Semi-officially it was explained that war is neither wanted nor planned. Kemal is not expected to precipitate war, it was said, and Great Britain has no intention of forcing hostilities. Britain is extremely desirous of settling the Near East problem through an international conference and only the gravest circumstances will lead the government to take military steps prior to a conference.

Laborites have added their weight to the protest against war in the Near East. The independent labor party is organizing a "stop the war" campaign. A big demonstration against war is planned for Wednesday night.

Dispatches from the Near East indicate an easing up of the critical situation here. Kemal Pasha has not attempted an advance and has even advised London informally that he does not regard Great Britain as an enemy.

SOUTHERN SETTLES SHOPMEN'S STRIKE

at the Seaboard Air Line shops here who had been on strike during twelve weeks, returned to their tasks today. Strike breakers formerly employed at the shops here were rehired today Sunday and today nearly all of these had left the city. Whether they will be transferred to other points on the Seaboard system or have been discharged was not stated.

SHOP FORCES NOW 85 PER CENT NORMAL.

Chicago, September 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—Threats against non-union workers, but few outbreaks, were reported today as several more railroad put into effect the shopcraft peace plan and as the number of men employed on other roads increased so that it is now estimated that shop forces are about 85 per cent of normal.

Officials of both the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and the Northwestern announced that the striking shopmen returned to work by the thousands during the day and without any sign of the violence which Saturday when the returning workers demanded that all non-union employees be dismissed.

J. E. Gorman, president of the Rock Island railroad, announced no further negotiations will be carried on by that railroad with the officers of the shopcraft, but that the Rock Island shop employees' is being formed by those now in the service, with whom all future negotiations will be conducted.

Mr. Gorman and former employees will be restored to their full pass and pension privileges, but will not be given their old places on the seniority list. Striking Central officials said they were given until October 1 to re-enter the service in order to obtain pension benefits.

The executives of some of the roads that have held off from the shopcraft settlement plan, asserted today that the efforts of R. M. Jewell, president of the shopcraft, to narrow down to a fight to get jobs for the men he called out July 1.

Mr. Jewell's intention for New York last night with the intention of entering into a conference Tuesday morning with officials of the New York Central in an effort to reach an agreement on some basis of settlement, broke off conferences with representatives of the strikers, declaring the latter were making demands not in the original memorandum of agreement.

The orders above mentioned as having been issued by the union chairman, authorizing them to instruct their men to return to work, will affect 600 striking shopmen of the Southern system who have been on strike in Atlanta.

ALBANY PARENTS PROTEST AGAINST SEVERE HAZINGS

Albany, Ga., September 18.—Hazing of freshmen of the Albany High school by members of upper-classes this year has exceeded the records of former years, according to numerous reports made by indignant parents to school authorities and several boys have been handled so roughly that many parents are up in arms over the custom, which has prevailed here for several years.

One boy was painfully injured when another hit him in the back with a pair of hair-clippers, and the teeth of the implement sticking in the wound. Other boys were so severely paddled that painful bruises were sustained.

Hazing has taken the form of grotesque clipping of the boys' hair, taking them over several miles in the country in automobiles and making them walk back, forcing them to pick up from the ground with their teeth, walking on all fours while paddled, are vigorously used and various other pranks.

STORY OF SHAME IS TOLD BY WIFE

Mrs. Tiernan directly, fringed his questions in a manner calculated to bring out every detail of the sad story. The crowd hung eagerly upon every word. So pointed and delicate did the prosecutor's questions become that finally Judge Du Coud suggested that the court was interested only in essential facts and was not interested in the particulars.

Mrs. Tiernan was still on the stand when the court adjourned until Tuesday. She had told the long advertised story of her downfall from the pedestal occupied by a faithful married woman, which she claimed was the result of her great love for Poulin; of many times she said they were together, and of movie and automobile parties she said they had enjoyed together.

She told how she had slipped away from her husband on some occasions to meet Poulin on the Notre Dame university campus.

In addition to the noted professor of law, other witnesses in the celebrated case will be Mrs. Poulin, Miss Leila Henck, J. A. Anderson, and Mrs. Ethel Finkelbinder, a nurse.

Miss Henck and Anderson are said to have been on various automobile parties figuring in Mrs. Tiernan's story.

You Want Credit Now

There has never been a time in the history of business when credit was more important, more essential than it is today.

The credit you are entitled to is what you want. That credit is best measured by an accurate statement of your business condition.

Only a qualified accountant can give you such a statement as your bank wants, as a basis for credit. Let us tell you what to do.

NEW BUNGALOW IN PEACHTREE HEIGHTS

Built for a home; after individual designs by a noted architect. This lovely bungalow occupies a corner lot on Lakeview avenue. The owner started out to build a house that is first-class in every respect, and as usual, the cost exceeded the estimate. You can get the benefit of a good house at a considerable sacrifice. We are offering this place at $11,500. It will appeal to those who know a well constructed personal home, built from individual plans.

The Leaders in Optical Service

The signal success and popularity of the Walter Ballard Optical Co. is evidence that Americans do discriminate. There's a growing host of people who demand the best service and the best glasses. We claim the leadership in service and quality, because we have never sold anything but the best glasses. You can pay any price for frames you like, but the glasses must be the best that can be produced for your eyes or we cannot serve you. Results—thousands of satisfied customers all through the states. We refer you to any of them, also the better oculists, physicians, and people in all walks of life.

100,000 MILES and more

THIS year's annual list of White Trucks which have gone 100,000—200,000—300,000 miles and more includes 1437 trucks, every record certified to by the individual owners.

Unless White Trucks were unusually economical and dependable, owners would not continue to operate them long enough to record such mileages.

Summary of the List

No. Trucks	Mileage of each
69	300,000 and more
184	200,000 to 300,000
264	150,000 to 200,000
920	100,000 to 150,000
1437	100,000 and more

The complete list will be sent to anyone upon request.
